Hees Withdraws From Tory Race, Joins Diefenbaker Bandwagon

TRAIL, B.C. (CP)—George Hees today withdrew himself as a contender for the Progressive Conservative Party leadership, pledging his support to Saskatchewan lawyer John Diefenbaker as the man who can achieve "complete harmony and unity within our ranks."

LABOR PLANS PROBE

3rd Distiller Boosts Prices

A third distillery submitted increased prices on all brands of hard liquor today as members of the Victoria Labor Council objected to increases already announced.

At a meeting Wednesday, the council moved to establish a three-man committee to study reasons for the 16 1/2 per cent higher price asked by distillers. New prices were submitted today by Canadian Schenley Ltd., following example set by the House of Seagram and Alberta Distillers.

16 1/2 PER CENT

All three firms propose to raise their prices by as much as 16 1/2 per cent.

At the labor council meeting, retail clerk delegate John Aubrey objected to the manner in which the price increases had been presented. He said wage increases are usually responsible, but this is not true in this case.

Ed Haw, IWW delegate, said the increase is probably due to the fact distillers have control of all possible liquor outlets in the province and can't expand further.

Meanwhile, Col. Donald Mc-

15-Cent Price Increase Seen in Price of Bottle

Proposed liquor price increase is not on the price per bottle at the liquor store, but on the basic producers' price, The Times was advised today.

This means that cost per bottle of gin, or the cheaper ryes, might approximate 15 cents, rather than the 50 cents some consumers had feared.

Distillers' in-bond selling price of a case of gin, for example, is about $7.40. To this is added Dominion of Canada excise tax of $12 a gallon ($15.60), a manufacturers' tax of 10 per cent, government freight charge and provincial sales tax of 5 per cent.

Provincial government profit of approximately 50 per cent brings the consumer price in the area of $3.41 a bottle.

If the proposed price increase of 15 per cent is granted, it will apply to the basic sale price per case, and will also boost excise and sales tax revenues by a few pennies.

Possibility that the government may take an added cent or two profit, in bringing the retail store price to round figures, envisages a cost-per-bottle increase of about 15 cents, in the categories mentioned.

Rain Halts Series

NEW YORK (AP)—Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick ordered the postponement of today's second game of the world series between Brooklyn and New York Yankees because of a light rain and "menacing weather."

The second game will be played Friday at Ebbets Field with the forecast for fair weather.

It was the first postponement of a world series game in five years. A Sunday game at the Polo Grounds in 1951 between the Yankees and New York Giants was postponed then because of rain.

If a world series game is started, the rules of baseball apply and five innings would constitute a game, 4 1/2 innings if the home team is ahead.

Brooklyn's Don Newcombe and New York's Don Larsen, a pair of non-winning world series right-handers, will face each other in Friday's game.

MONTREAL (CP)—Waving merrily and wearing jovial grins, a delegation of Russian lumber officials headed by Lumber Minister G. M. Orlov, arrived today for a tour of Canada.

The seven stepped from their transatlantic aircraft and were greeted by chief representatives of the Canadian Lumbermen's Association and Russian Ambassador Dimitri Chuvahin. Heading the Canadians was CLA president Roy Halliday of Toronto, who recently led a group of Canadian lumber officials on a tour of Russia covering some 8,000 miles.

The Russians head westward for Banff, Oct. 16, arriving in Vancouver Oct. 18. After a busy visit in British Columbia, including a day in Victoria as guests of B.C. government, they will go to Ottawa for Oct. 27 conferences.

British Ship Tieup Through Suez Feared

PORT SAID, Egypt (UP)—Egyptian authorities have cut off the local currency supplied to British shipping agents here because of Britain's sterling freeze, it was learned tonight.

The Egyptian action, taken as a retaliatory measure against the British blocking of Egyptian funds in the United Kingdom, has faced agents here with a financial crisis. It could lead to a complete holdup of British ships going through the Suez Canal.

Under the new regulations, all foreign currency transfers in Egypt must now be sanctioned by exchange control authorities—and sterling transfers are being turned down.

This means that shipping agents here can no longer draw local currency for sterling deposited in blocked accounts in London.

As a result, British shipping agents—who handle approximately 40 per cent of the canal traffic—can no longer pay local bills and were operating today on huge bank overdrafts.

Suez Ships Hours Late, 2nd Tieup

PORT SAID, Egypt (Reuters)—Suez Canal operations were delayed again today.

The first southbound convoy was six hours late starting, twice as late as Wednesday's first southbound convoy.

Fog and mishaps to two ships were blamed for Wednesday's delays.

All Daoud, transit chief of the Egyptian Suez Canal Authority, confirmed reports that the 4,800-ton Panamanian freighter Archon Michael was grounded in the canal for two hours and said the 11,110-ton Norwegian tanker Eli Knudsen was tied up for 20 minutes near Suez.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y.

(AP)—Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold of the United Nations is reported using his full influence to avert a showdown fight in the Security Council, which might shut the door to further UN peace efforts in the Suez dispute.

Informed quarters say this is the main theme in the series of private talks Hammarskjold is having with high-ranking diplomats assembling here for the Suez debate beginning in the Security Council Friday.

The secretary-general was understood today to have found substantial support, but Britain and France said they were determined to push their demands for UN endorsement of the plan for international control of the canal approved by the London conference in mid-August.

The Bureau of Statistics today reported its consumer price index, based on 1949 prices equalling 100, reached a mark of 119 for August, down one-tenth of a point from the July level of 119.1, which it had reached following three consecutive monthly increases.

Speeding Train Runs Gauntlet of Gunfire

JERUSALEM (AP)—Israeli officials said the crowded Haifa-Jerusalem passenger train was attacked Wednesday night by rifle and machine-gun fire from across the Jordan border. The train engineer was the "only casualty."

The wounded man, hit in the leg by a ricocheting bullet, put on full speed and piloted the train for another six miles, until it reached Lydda.

The incident occurred in the Israeli coastal plain about 35 miles south of Haifa.

Security forces aboard the train returned the fire. "When the danger was over the passengers got up again and began to sing," witnesses reported.

Israel announced Wednesday that its delegate would attend no more meetings of the Israeli-Jordan armistice commission. The foreign ministry charged the United Nations truce organization with "steady attempts . . . to equalize acts of Jordan aggression with justified Israeli measures of self-defence."

U.K. Turbo-Prop Britannias Sold To U.S. Airline

Experts to Examine Strip-Teaser Scars

PARIS (AP)—A court Wednesday appointed three experts to examine strip-teaser Sonia Silver to determine whether, as she claimed, an operation left disfiguring scars across her stomach. Maitre Rene Floriot, her lawyer, told the court: "Because of a doctor, the daring—but advantageous paths of this kind of spectacle are henceforth closed to her." Sonia, a pretty blonde, was said to have requested the operation to flatten her stomach. The result, it was claimed, was the disfiguring scar.

Amount of the damages claimed was not disclosed in court. DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—City police figured it wasn't venison from Denison, but veal from a steal. Officers found three men skinning an animal in a North Dallas back yard Wednesday. The men said it was a deer they ran over near Denison, not far from here. But there's more than one way to tell a skinned calf from a fawn, and the officers suspected cattle rustling. The veal was placed in an icebox for safe keeping and three suspects were put "on ice" at the city jail while charges are prepared.

VIENNA (Reuters)—A man wrote to a Hungarian newspaper saying that Hungarian customs officials ordered him to open every can of sardines he had brought to Hungary to feed his family. When he complained, they agreed he need not open all the cans provided those unopened were given as a gift to the Hungarian state. He said the officials wanted the cans opened because they feared spies might bring back messages from abroad in sealed sardine cans.

Fuzzy was grieving over the loss of a puppy, and the cub was trying to escape being killed by its mother when Huntington police got the two together. They hit it off fine. The cub's mother belongs to a traveling wild animal show.

OTTAWA (CP)—The Board of Transport Commissioners today adjourned until next week consideration of the railways' request for a 15-per-cent general rail freight rate increase.

The board opened its hearing into the case Sept. 24. It will resume next Wednesday to hear views of Alberta and Saskatchewan coal operators. Oct. 16 was set as the date on which final argument will begin.

The board in June granted the railways an interim 7-per-cent general rate boost.

Municipal Act Revision Talks Set for Oct. 18 in Victoria

PENTICTON (CP)—Revision of the Municipal Act to allow for establishment of metropolitan areas will not be dealt with at the annual convention of the Union of B.C. Municipalities now in session here.

Burnaby Reeve C. W. MacSorley, chairman of UBCM's Municipal Act revision committee, announced today the section dealing with metropolitan areas will be reviewed by his committee and Municipal Affairs Minister Wesley Black at a special meeting, Oct. 18.

Mr. MacSorley said the meeting had been called by Mr. Black and will probably be held in Victoria.

Speaking at the 53rd annual UBCM convention, Mr. MacSorley said more than 1,000 sections of the act have been reviewed by his committee, but that the metropolitanization section had not been touched.

He said the new act "will be supreme in the field of municipal legislation" and has been shaped "to prevent the damaging effect on local governments when senior governments invade the fields of endeavor best handled at the local level."

One proposed change would have elected parks boards replaced by council-appointed boards and elected police commissions replaced by appointed boards, he said.

Canada Okays Salk Vaccine Of U.S. Firm

By VICTOR J. MACKIE
Times Ottawa Correspondent
OTTAWA — A United States pharmaceutical firm, the Elie Lilly Company, has been licensed to export Salk polio vaccine into Canada. Hon. Paul Martin, minister of national health and welfare, announced today.

It is the first of the U.S. vaccine producers to receive authority to ship Salk vaccine into Canada. The imported vaccine will be available for private sale by physicians across the country.

The American firm submitted samples for testing several weeks ago. The vaccine has passed the stringent Canadian standards of safety and potency.

Up to the present, all vaccine (except for small quantities admitted in the early stages) has been produced by Connaught Medical Research Laboratories in Toronto.

A second Canadian source, the University of Montreal's institute of microbiology and hygiene, is expected to come into production within the next month.

French Reds Bid to Heal Rift With 'Heretic' Tito

PARIS (UP)—The French Communist party, one of the last bastions of Stalinism, is sending a top-flight delegation to Belgrade to make peace with Marshal Tito, it was reported today.

The French delegation's trip would coincide with visits to Belgrade of emissaries from the Italian, Bulgarian and Romanian parties, and a major Communist party congress appeared possible.

The reports indicated Tito might preside over a conference of European Communists, and give them the latest party line developed in his talks with Nikita Khrushchev.

Bulgarian, Rumanian and French comrades are among the stiffest opponents of Khrushchev's efforts to downgrade Stalin.

The French delegation was to include picked members of the political bureau and was expected to leave Paris as soon as Tito returns from his secret talks with the Kremlin leader, possibly this weekend.

Relations between the 5,000,000-vote French Communist party and the Yugoslav branch have been almost nonexistent since 1948. French leader Maurice Thorez was among those signing a Stalin-inspired Cominform resolution renouncing Tito as a heretic.

Belgrade coldly rejected an invitation to send delegates to the French Party Congress last June.

The conference, held at Le Havre, further widened the cleavage between the French and Yugoslav Communists when Thorez declared that heresy indeed had been committed by Tito.

Reports from Rome said the Italian Communist party also was sending a top delegation to Belgrade as soon as Tito returns. Similar reports came from Bulgaria and Rumania. Others may follow.

It appeared that Europe's Communist parties were desperately anxious to find out the possible new line following the Tito-Khrushchev talks in the Crimea.

TITO DEMANDS BRING IMPASSE IN YALTA TALKS

BELGRADE (AP)—Yugoslavia's President Tito is reported to have failed to convince his Russian hosts at Yalta that they should not soft-pedal their de-Stalinization program. Informed sources say that the Yugoslav talks in the Crimea have reached an impasse over Tito's reported insistence that the lessening of Moscow's controls continue as a condition for reviving Belgrade's ties with Yugoslavia's satellite neighbors.

These informants say Tito's campaign for independence of the satellite Communist parties from Kremlin direction has run into opposition from the Soviet party chief, Nikita Khrushchev, himself.

Campaign Gets Rough, Accusations Fly

WASHINGTON (AP)—Democratic and Republican campaigners got rough Wednesday night, with Adlai Stevenson, accusing President Eisenhower of "misrepresentation" and Vice-President Nixon accusing the Democratic presidential candidate of state-ments "terribly damaging to America's interests abroad."

Stevenson spoke from Pittsburgh in a nationally televised reply to Eisenhower's campaign speeches earlier this week.

Nixon, in Philadelphia, struck anew at Stevenson's proposal that the United States lead in a move to end hydrogen bomb tests.

SAYS IKE WRONG

Stevenson told his TV audience that Eisenhower had been guilty of "gross mis-statement" of the record on such domestic matters as social security, the minimum wage, relief of unemployment in distressed areas, the cost of living, farm prices, small business and civil rights.

At one point he chided Eisenhower for saying that some Democrats are talking "wicked nonsense."

"I think it's too bad," Stevenson said, "that any criticism of the administration, any disagreement with its policies—or lack of policies—is dismissed as some form of moral delinquency or wickedness."

NONSENSE, SAYS NIXON

Nixon referred to Stevenson's repeated suggestion that H-bomb tests be halted and called this "catastrophic nonsense."

"Russia is still surrounded by an Iron Curtain, and for us to agree as Mr. Stevenson suggests would be just like playing Russian roulette, but with only the Russians knowing which chamber had the fatal bullet in it," he said.

Nixon said Stevenson was making "shotgun attacks" on Eisenhower's policies which were hurting the U.S. abroad.

We Salute You, DOCTOR

The eyes of many people turn to Victoria where the doctors of British Columbia gather for their annual Clinical Sessions during the present week. To many people, the events taking place at Victoria promise hope of new medical victories against the many afflictions of the human body and mind.

As these medical advances are reported to the profession and to the world, many of us laymen tend to forget an important fact. We frequently are inclined to credit medicine's victories to some new "miracle" drug or to some revolutionary new technique—and these do deserve very great praise indeed. But what we may overlook is the fact that it is the physician to whom such a large share of the credit belongs. The new drugs and techniques are created to help the doctor and his patient. There it is that the doctor's knowledge and skill play their vital role.

That, in fact, is the ultimate aim of all of us who are associated with the health professions—serving the doctor and his patient. We in the voluntary health insurance field like to think that our work contributes to this goal, for health insurance frees the patient from much of his worry about the costs of his illness. And this peace of mind of the insured patient encourages him to seek needed medical care sooner, and to benefit more fully from his doctor's skillful treatment.

By trying to improve existing forms of health insurance, and by experimenting with new types—such as major medical expense insurance—the companies issuing health insurance are working continuously to match the remarkable progress of modern medicine. And by vigorously encouraging ever growing numbers of Canadians to avail themselves of these newer and improved coverages, we believe we are helping Canada's doctors to insure the continuance of voluntary medicine in this country.

Along with others on what might be called the "health team," we are proud to support the medical profession in a common objective: more and better health for more Canadians. And we are even more proud to salute the leaders of this health team—the nation's doctors—for the great strides they are making toward this goal.

Courts and Commissions

THE SUDDEN ILLNESS OF MR. Justice O'Halloran has brought into sharp focus one of the difficulties facing the judiciary in these times.

A break in the health of a senior Court of Appeal member has forced him from his duties. In consequence the work of the court is interrupted and delayed.

This situation has developed in spite of the comparatively recent change in appointments which added another member to the court. That addition was expected to furnish sufficient members to permit the Court of Appeal to sit in two divisions simultaneously.

Mr. Justice O'Halloran's illness comes, too, at a time when Chief Justice Sloan is still engaged in the arduous task of completing his forestry commission report. While he has been engaged as Royal Commissioner he has not been available to the court over which he presides. If he temporarily abandons work on his report to resume his work on the bench, a matter of major public concern will be delayed. If he does not, then conditions in Court of Appeal are complicated.

The Chief Justice has suggested the appointment of one more member to the court. Such an addition would provide some leeway, make available a replacement in the case of illness and give the various justices more time to write judgments.

The proposal deserves particular consideration in view of the prevailing practice by governments at different levels of calling on the bench for commissioners.

The cases are innumerable. They cover such incidents as the appointment of a county court judge to consider matters related to the Doukhobors, the selection of a Supreme Court of Canada member to deal with a highly technical industrial dispute, the use of a B.C. Supreme Court judge to investigate the milk industry.

The demands on the bench are understandable. Jurists, by their very position, enjoy a status of independence probably unrivalled in any other pursuit. By training and ability they are highly competent to weigh evidence impartially. Their court experience assists them in drawing reasoned and sound conclusions.

These characteristics lead governments—with an apparently increasing inclination to call for royal commissions—to turn to the judiciary.

The principle of making such claims on the institution whose primary purpose is to interpret law may be incorrect. Certainly it places a heavy burden not only on the men chosen for specific inquiries, but on their colleagues who are left to assume additional work.

However, if this is established practice, and it seems to be, then the courts will require more men. Such is the case in the Court of Appeal now as the result of Mr. Justice O'Halloran's indisposition.

The alternative seems to be to have governments look elsewhere for their commissioners. It is an alternative which provincial and federal authorities will find unattractive because jurists have been outstanding in such duties. Chief Justice Sloan, for instance, has been and is recognized as probably the most appropriate choice that could have been made for the important investigation of B.C.'s forest resources, their use and preservation.

At all events, jurists cannot do the two jobs at the same time. Governments should show greater recognition of that fact. They are placing too heavy demands on too few men and the courts are suffering.

Of Vital Concern to All

LAYMEN WILL FOLLOW THE Conference of the B.C. division of the Canadian Medical Association now in session here with more interest than is generally accorded professional discussions.

More than at any other period, health, both personal and public, is a topic of prime concern to Canadians. An increasing awareness of the benefits of preventive health measures, a growing recognition of the wonderful new services that can be rendered by the medical profession today, have combined to raise public interest in the subject.

The modern onslaught of science on some of the greatest hazards to health and life has awakened an intensified public concern in the prevention and cure of disease. This is an important development, since in many cases the financial support of the public is needed to ensure medical progress. The co-operation of the individual, too, is increasingly a factor in modern health practices. Widespread support for immunization of children and adults is necessary if contagious diseases are to be wiped out, and such support can come only from a proper understanding of what is being accomplished. Early diagnosis is a prime consideration in some cures, and popular resort to medical advice can be achieved only through public education and co-operation.

For these and other reasons the statements of the medical fraternity are news in every sense and will be closely followed. Few other professions are so deeply involved in humanity. Few others carry the heart-felt hopes of mankind for success in its ceaseless battle.

Newfoundland Likes Smallwood

NEWFOUNDLAND HAS AGAIN given a sweeping endorsement to the man who led the colony into Confederation and made it the tenth province.

Premier Joseph Smallwood's Liberals not only retained the overwhelming majority they held in the last House, but took all eight of the new seats created by redistribution. They hold 32 of the total 36, with the Conservatives retaining four—the number they had at dissolution.

Here again the voters followed the pattern general in provincial elections throughout Canada this year. Widespread prosperity has worked in favor of governments in office. Provincial populations that are well off have shown no inclination to change.

Mr. Bevan Is Back

THE RETURN OF ANEURIN Bevan to a position of executive importance in the Labor Party—and possibly to the fold—will be noted in the context of political conditions in Britain.

Mr. Bevan has become party treasurer, a key post, at a time when his erstwhile rival for leadership of the party, Mr. Hugh Gaitskell, seems thoroughly established as the top man. The intense feud which existed within the party when Mr. Bevan was the rallying ground for the extreme left, has died down. Indeed Mr. Bevan's election to his new post could have been effected only with the support of trades unionists, the faction most opposed to him when he made his bid to succeed Clement Attlee.

At that time Mr. Bevan was keenly critical of the United States. His animosity to Washington reached a pitch of violence which obviously did much to separate him from the moderates who formed the bulk of Labor's strength.

He returns to significant office when the Dulles policy on the Suez has antagonized a great deal of British sentiment.

Chiefly embarrassed by that U.S. attitude is Sir Anthony Eden, whose diplomatic abilities are strained in an effort to hold in check the "young Turks" of his own party.

Paradoxically, insofar as the Dulles effort is extended to prevent use of force in the Suez, the U.S. Secretary of State has apparently adopted a position nearer to the British Labor Party than to the Conservatives. Yet, at this point in time, Mr. Bevan, the anti-American, comes back to prominence in the party.

While Sir Anthony Eden presides over a Conservative government divided within itself on policy lines as well as on questions of personal leadership, Labor appears to be healing its most serious breach.

Will It Be a Game of Follow the Leader?

FROM WASHINGTON By WALTER LIPPMANN

Eisenhower vs the Democrats

CONTRARY to what most of us thought would happen, the big set speeches on television are not reaching the undecided voters on whom the outcome depends. Because the campaign managers are agreed on this, they have Stevenson, Kefauver and Nixon constantly on the road, and there is mounting pressure on Eisenhower to keep him moving about. The voters, it would seem, are not much interested in hearing what the candidates have to say, in listening to their arguments, and in finding out where they stand on questions of policy. The voters are interested in seeing the candidates, in watching them, in having a look at them, and in sizing them up. We are having, one might say, not a great debate but a great inspection.

There must be a number of reasons why in both parties there is such a clamor for personal appearances, rather than for big orations. But all the reasons derive from what I think is the fundamental choice on which the undecided voters are crystallizing their hunches and making up minds.

The choice is whether to put their trust in Eisenhower personally or in the Democratic party.

Ghost Writers

The big television speeches do not help them to make their choice. For one thing, the experienced television viewers have become aware of the professional speechwriters. They have become aware of them to such a degree that nobody ever thinks any longer, though in fact there are exceptions, that the speaker wrote the speech he is reading.

The public has come to think of the television speeches, not as a marvellous means to get close to the candidate but, as an act, given the prepared script, the make-up and the rehearsed business, which hides the real man.

What the undecided voters are trying to make up their minds about is whether they can depend on Eisenhower's vigor; whether they trust Nixon, whether Stevenson and Kefauver give them confidence. Hence, the demand for personal appearances, for the candidates in the flesh so that they can be observed and sized up.

The people do not trust, they are not really convinced by, the television pictures. For they know that often men look worse, that sometimes they can be made to look much better, than they look when you see them face to face.

Unless I am much mistaken, the contest for the presidency is not between Eisenhower personally and Stevenson personally. Nor is it a contest between the Republican party and the Democratic party. It is, at bottom, a contest between a man and a party, between Eisenhower, who is much stronger than the Republicans, and the Democrats, who, when they are united and aroused, are the majority in the nation.

The fact that Eisenhower's strength is so personal to him, that it is apart from the lesser strength of his party, is why his health, his age, his ineligibility for a third term, and Nixon, play so big a part, so much bigger than appears on the surface, in the considerations of this campaign.

But for Eisenhower personally, the Republicans would not have a chance to elect the next president. The Democrats, by contrast, are showing great party strength. It is this party strength which is pitted against Eisenhower's personal popularity. That is why Eisenhower finds himself carrying the Republicans on his back and running against the Democratic party.

'Diplomatic Boner'

FROM THE NEW YORK TIMES
WITH their usual good sportsmanship the British seem to have replied in a spirit of self-examination to the undiplomatic criticism a retiring American official has just made of some of their business and industrial techniques.

The American is Francis E. Rogers, who for more than five years has headed the division of the United States aid mission to the United Kingdom that was concerned with helping British management and labor improve productivity and technical proficiency.

Now at the end of his tenure Mr. Rogers has said at a farewell luncheon in London some sharp things about British workmanship, styling and price.

To a nation that has traditionally prided itself on the quality of its export products, and to a nation that must export or die, these must have been harsh words indeed—especially coming from a man who was known as a friend of Britain.

The British newspapers have apparently taken Mr. Rogers' comments as a challenge. That is all very well, but their admirable attitude does not make Mr. Rogers' talk any the less of a diplomatic boner.

His criticism may or may not be well taken, but it ought hardly to have been publicly expressed at a farewell luncheon to mark the winding up of a successful experiment in practical international friendship. The time and place, to say the least, were bad.

What many Americans abroad still fail to grasp is that they are individual ambassadors of their country. Their public comments as well as their public acts can make a great deal of difference; and the point is particularly obvious if they are acting—as Mr. Rogers still was—in an official capacity.

As Our Readers See It

Priced Onto the Wagon

Congratulations to the House of Seagram and Alberta Distilleries Ltd. on their decision to increase the prices of their products. I note also with satisfaction that it is expected other distilleries will follow suit, all this increasing the price to the consumer.

This is the opportunity we have long awaited. Most of us know that we are far better off, physically and financially, without the stuff, and now that the L.C.B. has the effrontery to advise us that a 16 per cent boost in prices is in the offing, it is time to call quits. Prices here are appalling enough, especially considering the inferior quality product, as compared to that obtainable in the East.

Truly, our temperance organizations should need no greater boost.

Liquor and Desecration

May I say a word on behalf of these four teenagers of Port Alberni.

I do not excuse them. They are old enough to know better. Nor do I make any suggestion for leniency. This sort of thing cannot be treated lightly. Fortunately, in Canada, we can leave the matter of penalty in the capable hands of the court.

I have no criticism for the outburst of outraged public opinion that has followed. Public opinion is a mighty deterrent to wrong doing. But four young lives are involved! And these four were drinking liquor! All of them were minors. Someone sold them that liquor, and he goes free.

The B.C. Government got its "rake-off" from that bottle of whisky, and feels no responsibility. The liquor industry keeps on making its product and its profit, much of it resulting in tragedy like this. Its only response is more advertising to get more people to drink more liquor. Whatever may be said by way of attempted defence (and Abraham Lincoln said "Liquor has many defenders, it has no defence") this much is certain—four young Canadian citizens would not be in this serious trouble had they not been drinking.

When young people learn that there is nothing smart, big or funny in drinking liquor, society will not be sickened as well as saddened by such foolish acts. The responsibility for this Alberni tragedy, rests on more than those four young pairs of shoulders whose lives have been smirched, if not smashed by this silly and sordid act.

Frightening

As a visitor to Victoria I was interested in reading the newspaper edited by the renowned Bruce Hutchison.

I was impressed when I saw the column correctly titled "The Blur" by one, Ruth Enke. Then I was frightened. The mystical adoration of a picture of the premier smacked of the hysteria of a religio-maniac at a tawdry shrine. In this case it is unadulterated blasphemy. But what is frightening is that it was upon just such perverted idolatry that Adolph Hitler and Mussolini built their creeds of corruption and destruction.

Can the people, the sane people, of British Columbia not stop this movement which so cynically exploits religion to gain political power? Or is Canada to fall, another victim of the deadly germ, fascism?

Your premier is quoted as saying the election was a "triumph of the ordinary people." He is right. It was a triumph of the ordinary people; very ordinary. So ordinary they sold themselves for $25 per annum. "And the Lord He made even the least of them."

Free from Political Control

From The Ottawa Citizen

WHEN NINA PONOMAREVA was charged with shoplifting in London, the Russians cancelled a track meet in which she was to have thrown the discus. Sport fans were disappointed and the promoters suffered a heavy loss. Worse still, the Bolshoi Theatre Ballet Company, due to open at the Covent Garden Royal Opera House on October 3, cancelled its visit, professing to fear persecution of its members.

Happily for Anglo-Russian cultural relations, which have been developing apace for several years, the Bolshoi's director has changed his mind, after earnest reassurances from the British Council, a state-sponsored cultural agency. Nina, however, has yet to have her case settled, for she jumped bail and took refuge in the Russian embassy.

To the Russians, apparently, it seemed unfriendly of the British—indeed, an act of "provocation"—to lay a charge against Nina. The hats alleged to have been taken from a store were worth only about $5 and according to her account of the matter Nina had paid for them anyway without realizing she should get a receipt. Some British newspapers urged that the internationally troublesome case be dropped, irregularly if not otherwise, while on the other hand the Communist Daily Worker called the Russian attitude "silly."

But although the charge against Nina is a minor matter, the principle involved is far from trivial. It is the principle of the independence of the judiciary. In many countries, the courts will heed the wishes of governmental authorities. It is not so, however, in Britain—or Canada. Mr. Anthony Nutting, Minister of State for Foreign Affairs, has been trying to convince the Russians that British courts really are free from political control.

Were the judiciary not independent, lawbreakers who made big contributions to party campaign funds might expect immunity. Supporters of opposition parties might find it hard to obtain justice—perhaps to avoid persecution. All must be equal before the law and the courts must do their duty without fear or favor.

Victoria and the Canal

IN THE CONTEST between Nina Ponomareva, the Russian lady athlete with five hats, and Egypt's Nasser with 103 miles of Suez Canal, for sustained news value in their undertaking, the Egyptian seems to be an easy winner. And this in spite of the fact that nearly everybody uses hats while only very few own oil tankers and use the Suez Canal.

It takes a simple process to acquire a hat; even quintuplets of chapeaux like Nina. The acquisition of a canal seems an impossible undertaking to the average person. In reality it is just as easy if you know how to go about it. A case in point is the manner in which the U.S.A. acquired the Panama Canal site under Teddy Roosevelt the go-getter.

Few people know or remember that Victoria played a minor role in the construction of the Panama Canal. It was a salvage expedition back in 1912 when the Ss. Salvor received instructions from Lloyds in London, the great marine insurance association, to proceed to Panama to raise and salvage a vessel, the Ss. Newport of San Francisco, which was lying on its side with a punctured hull at the Pacific entrance to the Panama Canal.

The green-grocer who supplied the ship with victuals had been an active member of the rebellion and thus one of the "founding fathers" of the Republic of Panama. He also supplied the writer with the history in the raw. But of this later.

A subterranean landslide caused by the dredging of the canal way and the deepening of the channel by blasting, with the collapse of wharf and cranes on top of the vessel, blocked operations at Balboa, the harbor of Panama. Thus the call from London to Esquimaux and the B.C. Salvage Co. to proceed hence.

After a voyage of nearly two weeks, with water and fuel running low, the Salvor was in Balboa and the salvage operations began without delay. Efficient efforts were under Capt. Logan of the London Salvage Co.; Capt. Stratford, and Chief Engineer Allen of the Ss. Salvor, and head diver DeCosta, supported by hard work of officers and crew from Victoria, all of them doing their very best under trying conditions of tropical heat and innumerable obstacles. Thus after a little over three months, the sunken Ss. Newport was afloat on an even keel, ready to proceed to San Francisco under her own steam. A fine piece of salvage work.

At Balboa, the tokens of the tragic failure of the ill-fated French Panama Canal Co. were visible everywhere in the form of abandoned machinery of every description lying about the border of the canal, then under construction by the U.S.A.

There were acres of graveyards of the victims of yellow fever with simple wooden crosses, the number of their payroll as sole identity of those unsung heroes who succumbed in the effort that failed.

The purveyor of the ship's victuals gave us an interesting outline of the history of the acquisition of the Panama Canal Zone by the U.S.A.

It seems that the protracted negotiations with the senate of the Republic of Colombia became so irritating to the U.S. State Department and residents of the Province of Panama that a way for direct action had to be found to get things going.

A revolutionary committee had been formed in which our grocer-historian played a heroic part. He supplied gallons of native rum, a tremendous stimulant of patriotic exuberance which under the active guidance of agents-provocateurs of the U.S. Department of State and the French Panama Canal Co. brought results in the form of a declaration of independence of the new Republic of Panama by an enthusiastic assembly.

Communications were slow in those days and when the authorities in Bogota, the capital of Colombia, sent a small contingent to quell the rebellion, there was a small U.S.A. man-of-war at anchor at Colon, the entrance to the canal from the Atlantic.

The American custodians of liberty and self-determination informed the startled expeditionary force that they had come too late, the new Republic of Panama having just been recognized as an independent sovereign state by the U.S.A., and that the subjugation of the new state would be considered a very unfriendly act by Teddy Roosevelt.

A treaty with the former rebels who had now become pillars of the new legal government of Panama must have been an easy task. Thus another political entity, the American Canal Zone, came into being. Some day we may find out how orthodox historians tell the story. But we are going to stick to our eye witness' account.

Our grocer-historian was doing well at the time of the story. His assets before the rebellion amounted to $10,000. Graduating to wholesaler, land speculator and other free enterprises too numerous to mention, he had already amassed a quarter of a million and was within visible distance of his first million.

The Greatest Show on Earth

SOMETIMES I come to with a start, and wonder what on earth I'm doing with a column. Because no one could be less of a "doer" than I am. No one could be more retiring or dull.

In fact, my idea of happiness is to sit well in the background, taking in all I see, and simply watching the greatest show on earth go by.

I love to sit in the marble halls of some great station and watch the arrivals and departures, the greetings and goodbyes.

In my youth, I loved the sidewalk cafes of the Continent where one could dawdle after lunch with liqueur and cafe filtre and see the world go passing by.

I'm never bored. Except by housework! And I enjoy the queerest things.

As a spectator, I enjoy a crowded counter at a bargain sale where women toss the goods about, searching for weak spots, shrewdly appraising the value, and having the time of their lives in their own peculiar way.

It's often just as funny as anything you'd see in a movie. And, in my mind, I often see it as a little movie scene.

The other day when I had to take a dog to the vet I longed for a hidden movie camera to take a sequence of us all in the admitting room.

There was a long-legged, well-brushed man with a good tweed jacket and a long-legged, well-brushed golden sort of dog. There was a smartly dressed woman with an itchy-bitsy canine worn upon her shoulder like a brooch.

There was a rather distraught young woman whose children's pup had hurt his eye. And there was I with my oldest coat, the country mud still on my sensible shoes, and my unsophisticated pup on a length of binder twine because I've never bothered to buy a proper lead.

That scene, taken with some skillful angles by someone with a sense of humour, could have rocked a movie theatre with its gay humanity. Real Victorians!

And it seems to me that people who go rushing round looking for the stuff of life, are apt to miss what's sitting on their doorsteps.

I may be cracked, but it seems to me that life is in all the silly little things we see and do.

It's in the hurly burly and the heckling of a political meeting, and in the feverish excitement of election night.

It's in the solid citizen speaking a few well-chosen words into a carefully held-up microphone.

It's in the bleary, mumbling drunk swaying down a city street late at night. Look at the foolish, sagging grin, at the pathetic attempt of his sober, sad-faced wife to hold him up.

It's in the quiet grey faces at the hospital, and in the shuffling, dragging feet of weary convalescence.

It's in the muddy panting of the football field where hairy monsters hurl each other down to the plaudits of the crowd.

It's in the cheerful waitress who says, "Hiya handsome," to each middle-aged habitue as he slides onto his stool at her luncheon counter. (And how they love it. They all sit up a little straighter. You can see the years just tumbling off 'em. Quick now. Visualize that scene. Run the camera down the counter. Catch their faces, one by one. Oh, what a witch I am! But it's so sad and funny.)

Yes, I know it's trivial stuff. But it's the stuff of life. It's the greatest show on earth. I love it.

Diet and Arthritis

Dr. Alvarez is Emeritus Consultant in Medicine, Mayo Clinic and Emeritus Professor of Medicine, Mayo Foundation.

According to a recent article on arthritis, specially written by Dr. Edward Rosenberg of Chicago for Modern Medicine, "During the years special antiarthritis diets have been proposed and abandoned with great rapidity." The other day the top officials of the Arthritis Foundation were saying to me how disturbed they are over the way in which, of late, the public by the hundred thousand have fallen for the advice of a man who thinks that arthritis can be cured with a diet. As they said, none of the world's leaders in the field of arthritis believe such a thing. Years ago these men tried all the proposed diets for arthritis, and found them all without value. No amount of vitamins or cod liver oil or any dietary element seems to have any consistent effect on persons with bad arthritis.

It is sad for an old physician like me to see how, in their desperation, people will pay a quackish enthusiast large sums for a treatment that was tried again and again in the last 100 years and each time given up. For instance, the other day a woman told me that at last her crippled mother had found hope. She had traveled far to see a doctor who said he could cure arthritis. Patients were flocking to the man to get his "new" and "wonderful" treatment. I asked what it was, and the woman said, "Bee stings about the bad joint!"

And I remembered how my father had tried that out and given it up about the time I was a small boy. Fifty-one years ago one of my professors heard of it and tried it out extensively. I used to have to administer the "stings," but I soon decided they did no good. I never saw them cure anyone.

Every so often some kindly and well-meaning person tells me he has a wonderful new cure for arthritis. What does it turn out to be? Sulfur. This was tried out, I imagine, by the ancient Greeks and given up by them as useless long before Christ was born!

HEAT STROKE
Drs. Martin G. Austin and John W. Berry, of St. Louis, recently reported on 100 cases of heat stroke treated in a big city hospital. In some cases the first complaint was of cramps in the muscles, due probably to a loss of sodium chloride (table salt) in the sweat. Besides the cramps there was sometimes profuse sweating and great thirst. In other cases there was great sweating with pallor of the skin and a low blood pressure. In the worst cases the patient had a temperature over 106 degrees, a hot dry skin, and signs of injury to his brain. Examination of the blood showed signs of dehydration or drying out of the body. Many persons showed signs of a failing kidney function. Only four of the patients died.

In most cases the treatment consisted largely of putting the patient in a cool bath.

VACCINE AGAINST COLDS

In a recent report in the Journal of the American Medical Association, Dr. Joseph A. Bell, Capt. Matthew J. Hanover, Dr. Robert J. Heubner, and Dr. Clayton G. Loosli reported favorable experiences with a new vaccine made much as the Salk vaccine is made from a killed virus. The injection of the vaccine into 4,000 naval recruits showed a reduction of from 50 to 75 per cent in the incidence of influenza-like so-called adenovirus infections. I hope hundreds of persons will not write to ask me to send the vaccine because I have none for distribution.

THE NEW TRANQUILIZING DRUGS

Many persons want to know why their doctor hasn't given them one of the tranquilizing drugs. Certainly, anyone who is tense and highly nervous would do well to try out perhaps chlorpromazine or reserpine or a Miltown type of drug. Naturally, these drugs do not work equally well on everyone. A considerable percentage of my patients tell me that they have tried the drugs and either could not take them, because of unpleasant side-effects, or did not notice a great deal of change in their nervousness. The great advantage of the new drugs, when they work well, is that they produce a quieting effect without making the person too sleepy. Especially when a person has to work and earn his (or her) living he cannot afford to be sleepy.

I think all these drugs should be taken under the advice and observation of a physician, because like all strong medicines, they can at times do harm, or they can do harm if taken in too large doses or for too long a time.

Private Stations Demand Even Break with CBC

OTTAWA (CP)—Private broadcasters said Wednesday their proposals for a shuffle in controlling powers over Canadian radio and TV would not hinder the CBC in providing a national broadcast service.

While new broadcasting legislation proposed by the private operators ran into tough questioning from the Royal Commission on Broadcasting, spokesmen for the non-CBC stations insisted it would do no more than give the private stations an even break with the CBC.

They contended the present broadcasting structure in Canada contains a "built-in bias" in favor of the CBC.

The proposed legislation calls primarily for an independent regulatory board to control both the CBC and private broadcasters. The CBC board of governors now regulates both.

$850,000 'Ample' For Sewer

Saanich ratepayers Wednesday were assured the $850,000 money by-law, to be submitted to voters Oct. 27, is sufficient to complete the municipal sewerage system.

This assurance was given by Coun. Leslie Passmore at a meeting at the Cordova Bay Ratepayers' Association which demanded some "proof" that Saanich council can complete the project with the amount of money it wants to borrow.

Mr. Passmore was invited to speak on the by-law which council endorsed last week.

"Our main concern with this by-law is whether council is certain that the funds are adequate," said one ratepayer. "We want to know this before we vote."

NO DEFICIT
"The fund is ample to complete the project," replied Coun. Passmore. "You need not fear a further deficit like the one which brought the project to a halt last October."

The councillor said, in his opinion, the $850,000 figure is even "too high a figure."

"I believe we can finish the project for about $750,000," he said.

He explained that council had included nearly $200,000 in the money by-law to take care of unforeseen difficulties.

These were:
1. $106,000 as a contingency fund.
2. $40,000 for unforeseen rock which would raise expenses if encountered.

3. $50,000 to take care of possible wage increases in 1958.

"Saanich would have finished the project with the original $2,100,000 money by-law if it had not been for wage increases," he reminded his audience. "But I don't blame the workers for our troubles as they are entitled to wage increases like anybody else."

He said Saanich will have to install 25 miles of sewage pipes and 15 miles of house connections to complete the project. This would permit an additional 1,116 homes to hook up to the system.

The work completed to date included 70 miles of sewage pipes which enabled 4,079 homes to connect to the system, he said.

He said all 20-inch mains have been put underground, leaving only smaller pipes to be installed in the incomplete sewage area.

"In the interest of the municipality and for health reasons," I urge you to support this by-law," said Mr. Passmore. "It needs the support of every ratepayer."

Survivor Tells How New Building Collapsed in Ruins, Killing 10

JACKSON, Mich. (AP)—Rescue operations were broken off early today in the shattered ruins of a collapsed building, leaving at least six men presumed dead in wreckage that already had yielded four bodies.

It was hoped that the task of uncovering tangled tons of concrete and steel which buried the victims would resume later today after tottering walls which threatened to fall on rescuers had been knocked down.

The halt in the frantic digging that had continued throughout the night cancelled the last faint hope that some of the trapped workmen would be found alive.

Fifteen others were injured Wednesday when the half-completed office building of the Consumers Power Co. collapsed. The four-story poured-concrete structure had been designed to withstand the shock of an A-bomb blast.

"It all happened so fast I didn't get to see very much," said Russell Taylor, 64-year-old carpenter who was inside the building. "There was a cloud of dust and it was over in about three seconds. Shortly afterward I could hear the screams of the men who were trapped."

A tense moment came late at night when noisy generators and rescue machinery were shut off for 10 minutes while a dozen workers went far down into the debris to listen for moans or sounds that would indicate life.

But all was silent, and the men returned wearily to dig some more.

During the 10 minutes of silence, Rev. Francis Desmond, pastor of a Jackson Roman Catholic church, led the huge crowd of onlookers in the Lord's Prayer.

One wing of the building, designed to keep power flowing to Michigan industry in the event of enemy attack, caved inward as if pulled down by an invisible force. Its four heavy floors crumbled one by one and telescoped into the basement. Screaming workmen were carried down amid tons of concrete to be buried in a huge pile of twisted wreckage.

About 40 electricians, carpenters and construction men were working on the floor that gave way. Several were able to leap to sections that remained standing, but more than a score were trapped.

JACKSON, Miss. (AP)—A portion of a downtown open-air parking garage, inspected and declared safe only hours earlier, collapsed under 90 tons of wet concrete Wednesday and slightly injured 13 workmen as they dropped 20 feet to the ground. Workmen were still pouring concrete into V-shaped steel forms to support the 40-by-40-foot section when the forms gave way. Most of the injured were smoothing the newly poured concrete.

Three Acres Added to Park Near Sidney

Campers To Get New Facilities

B.C. Forest Service is to provide camping facilities in a three-acre addition to McDonald Provincial Park, two miles north of Patricia Bay Airport.

The provincial cabinet today authorized the forest service to buy the additional three acres from Mrs. Muriel McDonald. Mrs. McDonald donated the original five-acre property as a park two years ago in memory of her husband, Alex McDonald. Mr. McDonald was for many years a resident of the Sidney area.

During the first full year of operation of McDonald Park, it was used by "huge numbers" of people coming off the ferry from Anacortes, a forest service official said.

"Many of the tourists moved over into the area which will now be added to the park," he said.

V.I. Unionists Seek Part In Talks on Rock Workers

A Vancouver Island Building and pickets and defied a court injunction to cease picketing, thereby quest for representation in future talks aimed at solving a tunnel and rock workers' dispute in B.C. Vancouver Labor Council has been supported by Victoria Labor Council Wednesday.

The dispute, affecting an estimated $40,000,000 worth of heavy construction—about $30,000,000 in projects on the island—arose over the action of a break-away group of rock workers striving for individual recognition. They set up the council will make public a full report, containing facts kept quiet to the present time, and absolve itself of any further responsibility in connection with rock workers.

A meeting of rock workers' executives, representatives of Vancouver Labor Council and Canadian Labor Congress was scheduled today in Vancouver.

The Victoria request for representation was to be taken to Vancouver by T. C. Gooderham, regional director of education and organization for CLC, who attended Victoria Labor Council meeting.

The request was proposed by Victor Midgley, carpenters' union representative on the building trades council. He said the council, although having jurisdiction over all work on Vancouver Island, had never been informed on the rock workers' dispute, nor had it been invited to take part in settlement attempts.

"We are definitely an interested party because our people are affected," he said.

"We have been left completely in the dark," added E. T. Staley, carpenters' union provincial council representative and building trades council member.

Clifton Parker, also a member of the building council, said the group had been by-passed, willingly or unwillingly, and warned of the possibility of legislation affecting all organized labor arising from this dispute.

North Vancouver Flood Victims Reject Plan for Sale of Homes

From CP Dispatches
VANCOUVER — Most homeowners in North Vancouver have rejected council's plan to solve their flood problems, a spokesman said Wednesday.

They will ask for acceptance of one of two alternatives — to abandon their homes and have municipal, provincial and federal governments pay 80 per cent of their rehabilitation costs, or to move their homes to new land donated by council, council to pay moving costs.

Wally Macpherson, president of the Residents' Association, said home-moving firms have said they could move all the houses.

Council earlier offered to pay homeowners 75 per cent of the 1955 appraised value of their homes plus 100 per cent of the value of land. Homes were to be left intact. Under the residents' first alternative, they would be allowed to salvage what they could from their homes.

Association vice-president Dave Parkin said the council plan "is ridiculous and unintelligent."

One homeowner, a victim of last year's flood, has vacated his home and moved to another district. Others have moved possessions out of basements.

About 35 homeowners are in the area, troubled by floods from Mosquito Creek.

"They rolled around knocking over furniture," Betsy said. "Then I saw blood on Dave's face and I picked up a silver hand mirror and banged the man on the head with it."

"He kept pretty still after that."

Buildings on Stilts To Ease Congestion?

QUEBEC (CP) — Municipalities need more money for street improvement plans to develop efficient cities of the future, the Canadian Good Roads Association convention was told Wednesday.

George S. Mooney of Montreal, executive director of the Canadian Federation of Mayors and Municipalities, said municipal authorities are spending more than they should to carry out road programs, considering their other obligations and the "inadequate sources of their revenue."

He said municipalities must be relieved of some of their road and street responsibilities, by senior governments or the higher authorities should increase subsidies and grants for urban road purposes.

To relieve traffic suggestion, he suggested, cities could construct downtown buildings "on stilts" so that vehicles could pass beneath them. There also could be transport routes at different levels—one on top of the other.

IT'S MY VIEW BY Bill Walker

As Victoria Cougars of the Western Hockey League prepare for their pre-season exhibition series with Vernon Canadians starting tonight in Nanaimo, one thought comes to mind. It is that centre Doug Anderson could suddenly find himself as one of the most vital members of the club.

DOUG ANDERSON

In addition, Anderson, along with Colin Kilburn formed the mainstay of the Cougar defensive problem when the club was short-handed due to penalties. And if they weren't the better penalty killers in the league, then the record book contains a serious error.

Shows Zest of a Rookie

In years past, Anderson's work with the Cougars had been overshadowed to some extent by the feats of others. He was the forgotten man of the club on more than one occasion. But now, in retrospect, it must be admitted that he always was a vital cog in the club machinery and seldom the recipient of the honors that deservedly were his.

Then last year he came into his own. This month at the Nanaimo training camp of the Cougars, Anderson has been one of the most diligent workers under the strict routine initiated by Kilburn in his first year at the helm of the club.

Veterans have often been known to take the easy way out in fall training, living under the false philosophy that it will take them longer to get in shape than the rookies. And as a result, some of the standbys tend to "dog it." If only a trifle. But not Doug. He has been working with the zeal of a rookie.

Perhaps it could be because he has a personal fondness for Kilburn, his buddy from amateur days in Edmonton, or perhaps he realizes the extra burden that may be thrust upon him again this year as it was last season.

At any rate, he appears ready to meet the test, and master it. Which he did last year, as his triple duty to the club bears witness.

Yank Scouting Report Backfires in Opener

By DON WEISS

BROOKLYN (AP) — A Yankee scouting report that backfired helped considerably in Sal Maglie's opening victory over the American League champions and Maglie alternately chuckled and grinned as he told about it.

Newspaper men had pointed out to Brooklyn's Cicerella that not a Yankee batter swung at his first pitch in the first three innings and 21 hitters in all had let the first offering go by. With one exception, the pitcher was called strike.

"Let me tell you a secret," said Sal.

FRIEND GIVES TIP

A friend of mine, a ball player — and I'm not going to tell you who he is — told me that Jim Turner, the Yankee coach, scouted me in a recent game against Pittsburgh. He made a note that the Pirates had swung at my first pitch on 14 occasions without getting a hit.

"I figured," said Maglie as the grin widened, "they would be taking the first one and I decided to get it over the plate. I guess I figured right."

Despite Maglie's advance knowledge of the "bunk" strategy, manager Walt Alston disclosed that Sal came within one pitch of being replaced during the fifth inning.

"Sal never got real loose," Alston said, "and I would have been forced to go to my bullpen if Yogi Berra had walked in the fifth."

At the time, the Dodgers led 6-3. There were two on and one out. With the count 3-2, Berra swung at a pitch both Maglie and catcher Roy Campanella agreed was a ball. He lifted an easy loop to Sandy Amoros in left field and when Bill Skowron, the next batter, also flied out, Maglie was over his roughest hump.

YANKS PRAISE SAL

The Yanks, themselves, had nothing but praise for Maglie. "That fellow was just the better pitcher, that's all," said manager Casey Stengel. "Our fellow (Whitney Ford) wasn't very hot, but that's no excuse. We had their man in a lot of trouble but left him many? nine? — on base. There's your answer."

Chiupka Heeds Advice; Cougars to Meet Vernon

NANAIMO—Coach Colin Kilburn of the Victoria Cougars makes a practice of sitting down with each of his players for periodic, individual talking sessions between practices.

Kilburn tells each player what he is expecting of him, if he is pleased with the player's performance and what improvements could be made.

Wednesday morning, it was Don Chiupka's turn.

Kilburn took Chiupka aside and gave the sophomore centre a little advice.

"I told Don that with a little more heart and a little more of that six-letter word 'desire' he could help us a lot this season," Kilburn disclosed.

Chiupka apparently took Kilburn's advice as gospel truth because he was a one-man gang in Wednesday's inter-squad game.

The lightly constructed centre scored the first goal for his club and set up Wayne Brown with the second marker as the Blues edged the Reds, 2-1. Chiupka's offensive contributions were in addition to a strong defensive job, Chiupka being one of the best-checking forwards on the club.

CAN DO BETTER

Kilburn said today, "Don had a pretty good rookie year last season (17 goals) but I think he can do better for himself and, in addition, he could be the centre to help Wayne Brown get 30 goals. Don will have two good wingers in Brown and Roy Partridge and he could provide us with a dangerous line."

The Cougars wound up their series of scrimmages Wednesday with two sessions.

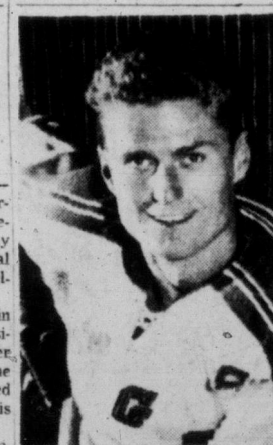

Today, they were scheduled for a light skating session and a team meeting before meeting Vernon Canadians tonight at Nanaimo Civic Arena in the first of two exhibition games with the defending Allan Cup champions.

Contracts have been signed by all but three players—goalie Marcel Pelletier, forward Doug Anderson and defenseman Bill Doherty.

Kilburn expects to sign Doherty and Pelletier as soon as the club returns to Victoria while Anderson, the only possible holdout, is the only possible holdout.

For tonight's game with Vernon, Anderson will pivot his old linemates, Kilburn and Doug Macauley on the club's only holdover line. Chiupka will pivot Brown and Partridge while impressive rookie Gordy Haworth will be at centre with Bruce Carmichael and George Ranieri as his wingers.

Defencemen fronting Pelletier will be Bill Davidson, Nelson Sulloch, Gordy Matheson and Lionel Heinrich.

Heading for a new hockey home is Allan Stanley, 30-year-old defenceman. Chicago Black Hawks Wednesday sold Stanley to Boston Bruins for an undisclosed sum. Stanley once played for Vancouver Canucks of Western Hockey League.

YANKS STILL FAVORED BUT ODDS ALMOST EVEN

BROOKLYN (AP)—Although beaten in the first game, New York Yankees still remain favorites to win the world series.

Bookmakers Wednesday night quoted Yanks at 6 to 5. It's 10-to-1 Yanks will win the next four and the same odds that Dodgers will win the series in four games.

For the second game it's 11 to 10 and take your pick.

Sal's Arm 'Tight' Had No Fast Ball

(Editor's Note: Sal Maglie pitched the Dodgers to a 6-3 victory over the Yankees in the first game of the world series, striking out 10 batters on the way. In the following dispatch he tells in his own words how he did it.)

There was something special about those words, and you saw the flags, the crowds, and you almost feel the tension of the moment. There's nothing in this world like winning one. Certainly, there never has been for me.

Sure, I had a couple anxious moments out there yesterday. Particularly in the fifth inning when they had two men on and only one out.

The skipper almost took me out right then and then, "He can't out and he can't win," you don't know how much you don't know in situations like that—

Royals Trounce Vernon

McNab Sparks
Westminster Attack

NEW WESTMINSTER, B.C. (CP)—New Westminster Royals unveiled their prospective Western Hockey League 1956-57 squad to 2,000 fans here Wednesday night by downing Vernon Canadians of the Okanagan Senior Hockey League, 8-1, in an exhibition game.

New Westminster led 2-0 at the end of the first period, increased its lead to 5-1 in the second and added three more in the final frame.

Former playing coach Max McNab, with two goals and three assists, paced the Royals' attack. Rookie right-winger Denny Olson scored a goal and two assists while another rookie, left-winger Greg Jablonski, scored two goals.

New Westminster's other goals were scored by Arnie Schmutz, Pete Durham and Gord Fashway.

Vernon's lone tally was scored by Walt Trentini.

The Royals' new defensive strength started the season by amassing 30 minutes in penalties and a game misconduct to Jim "Redeye" Hay, who played last season with Brandon Regals.

Hay also got two minor penalties before the misconduct. Fiery Pete Durham, acquired by New Westminster from Seattle Americans, was tagged with four minor and two five-minute penalties for a total of 18 minutes in the penalty box.

Vernon was assessed a total of 28 minutes.

New Westminster's goaltending was divided equally between holdover Bev Bentley and rookie Bill Tibbs from Troy, N.Y., of the International League. Bentley stopped 13 shots and allowed Vernon's only goal in the first period while Tibbs handled eight in the second.

Vernon's Hal Gordon stopped 12 shots during the game.

The game was marked by fierce checking on both sides, with referee Scotty Morrison keeping a firm grip on the play.

HENRY SPARKS BLUES
—PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP)—Camille Henry, last season's top goal scorer in the American Hockey League and purchased only Tuesday from Rhode Island Reds, provided three assists for New York Rangers Wednesday night as they defeated the Providence club 6-3.

Bobo Olson Retired —'Hasn't Been Right'

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP)—The manager of Carl (Bobo) Olson cancelled Wednesday the former world middleweight champion's comeback bout scheduled for tonight and announced Olson will never fight again.

"I've known Olson hasn't been right since he's been here," manager Sid Flaherty said. "After his disappointing workout Tuesday, I was convinced he should not try a comeback."

Olson, who has put on weight since being dethroned by Sugar Ray Robinson, had announced plans earlier to campaign as a light heavyweight. He was scheduled for a main event bout here against Sammy Walker tonight. His weight was about 170.

"There is no other honorable counsel," Flaherty said. "I must also be fair to the fight public." Olson's downfall began last year when, after ruling the middleweight ranks for two years, he moved up to challenge Archie Moore for the light-heavy crown and was knocked out in the third round.

Connolly Sets Hammer Mark

BOSTON (AP)—Hal Connolly of Boston bettered the world record for the hammer throw Wednesday with a tremendous toss of 218 feet 10 1/2 inches in a special event sanctioned by the New England AAU at Boston University field.

Connolly's heave on his sixth and final throw surpassed the world mark of 217 feet, 9 3/4 inches set by Russia's Mikhail Krivososov last July.

Connolly, a withered-arm Boston college graduate who became the first American to better 200 feet with the 16-pound hammer earlier this year, had five throws of more than 215 feet and one of 210 1/2 feet Wednesday.

Charles' Purse Takes Beating

LONDON (Reuters)—The British boxing board of control Wednesday withheld £200 from an estimated £2,000 purse of former world heavyweight champion Ezzard Charles because of his disqualification in a fight here Tuesday night against Welshman Dick Richardson.

Charles was disqualified because of persistent holding. The board said it has taken a "lenient view" of the case because of Charles' previous record.

RONNIE OFFICIALLY A STAMPEREDER NOW

CALGARY (CP)—Ronnie Knox, the glamor boy of the football park, inked a contract Wednesday with his second Canadian team this season.

The former UCLA quarterback who huffily left Hamilton Tiger-Cats last week agreed Tuesday to join last-place Calgary Stampeders of the Western Interprovincial Football Union.

Present at the signing were club president M. A. (Red) Dutton, general manager Bob Masterson, and Ronnie's controversial stepfather-manager, Harvey. Details of the contract were not released.

Wings Whip Stamps In Rough Contest

CALGARY, Alta. (CP)—Detroit Red Wings completed a triumphant exhibition tour of Alberta Wednesday night when they defeated Calgary Stampeders of the Western Hockey League 5-1 before 7,619 fans.

The National Hockey League club, which Tuesday night beat their WHL farm club Edmonton Flyers 6-1, led 3-1 at the end of the first period and held a 5-1 bulge at the end of the second. The Stampeders, however, outshot the Red Wings 27-19.

Tempers were on edge throughout and referee Merv Buffey was kept busy while handing out 16 penalties—nine of them to the Red Wings.

North Ullman, Billy McNeil, Alex Delvecchio, Lorne Ferguson and Metro Prystai each scored once for Detroit. Archie Scott, injured in the final period when hit in the face by a flying puck, scored the Calgary goal.

Maple Leafs Tie with Barons

NORANDA, Que. (BUP)—The National Hockey League Toronto Maple Leafs, tired and unimpressive, played the Cleveland Barons to a 5-5 tie last night in the final game of a pre-season exhibition series.

The Leafs started off strongly and chalked up a two-goal lead but then sagged while the Barons rallied throughout the third period.

The American Hockey League Barons had Freddie Glover, Danny Plizzani, Jimmy Moore, Bob Elik and Cal Stearns as goal scorers while Gary Aldcorn, Barry Cullen, Jim Morrison, Brian Cullen and Billy Harris scored for the Leafs.

George Hillier, veteran Newfoundland marathon runner from St. John's, was selected as first alternate.

FARRELL TO GET TRIBE JOB?

NEW YORK (AP)—Kerby Farrell, manager of Indianapolis Indians of the American Association, will be the next manager of Cleveland Indians, The Associated Press learned Wednesday night.

An official of the American League club said Farrell will be named Al Lopez' successor during the world series or shortly after. Lopez resigned last week.

Farrell this year guided Indians to the association play-off championship and the Little World Series title, in which they defeated Rochester of the International League in four straight games.

Doctors Told Group Must Be Truly National

A plea that all Canada's doctors become members of the Canadian Medical Association was made here Wednesday by CMA president Dr. Renaud Lemieux, Quebec City.

Addressing the annual meeting of the B.C. division, CMA, he pointed out that of Canada's 17,000 doctors, only 11,000 were CMA members.

VANCOUVER'S DR. WESTGATE ELECTED

Dr. Gordon Westgate, of Vancouver, was elected chairman of the surgical section of the British Columbia Division of the Canadian Medical Association at Wednesday's conference sessions in the Empress Hotel.

Other executive members are: Dr. Theodore Stevenson, New Westminster; Dr. J. A. Rankine, Kelowna; Dr. John Forst, Vancouver; Dr. J. R. Farish, Vancouver; Dr. Simon Marinker, Victoria, and Dr. Harry Cooper and Dr. Ross Robertson, both of Vancouver.

Segments of the medical profession today are still divided by "walls of schism," he said, which stress differences "not as doctors, but as individuals."

He urged that all doctors "rise above distinctions of creed, nationality, class and party, for the common good."

Dr. Lemieux said that at no other time in CMA history had the association been in a more favored position from which to shape the future pattern of medical care in Canada.

French Airliner Makes Fast Trip

PARIS (AP) — France's new twin-engine commercial jet, the Caravelle, Wednesday flew from Paris to Nice—nearly 600 miles—in one hour 15 minutes and returned in an hour and 20. The plane is called prototype No. 1. A second model is intended to make a flight to North America next February.

Whole Plantation Output Smuggled From Indonesia

JAKARTA, Indonesia (Reuters) — Police Wednesday announced several arrests in connection with the alleged smuggling of the entire production of a rubber plantation out of Indonesia and into Malaya. The announcement said tons of rubber were smuggled from a plantation in north Sumatra in the last three years, costing the government more than 3,000,000 straits dollars (about $974,000) in foreign exchange and 70,000,000 rupiahs (about $6,160,000) in duties.

BLAMES TV MASTS

'Suburbs A Mess' Says Expert

OTTAWA (CP)—National Gallery Director Alan Jarvis says some suburban areas are a "mess," sprawling "in forests of television masts."

"We should carry the war for changing standards right to town planning... and educate the public and builders to housing of more enduring quality," he told some 80 members of the Canadian Association of Consumers at the annual CAC meeting here.

Mr. Jarvis said the newly-formed Canadian Housing Design Council, of which he is a member, hopes to raise the standards of home building and design.

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—An Eastern Airlines flight captain said his DC-7, with 16 passengers aboard, missed crashing into an air force or navy jet trainer by 50 feet Wednesday.

Capt. R. J. Nemmers reported his pilot pulled the passenger plane up sharply and the jet screamed under the commercial plane. The incident took place over Dover, Del.

Plane Hits Wires In Alaska Crash; Five Aboard Die

NOME, Alaska (AP)—An Alaska Airlines plane crashed after running into aerial wires while flying low during a snow storm near here Tuesday night and all five persons aboard were killed.

The six-place plane, piloted by veteran Alaska bush pilot John Hutchinson, was en route from White Mountain to Council, a 30-mile trip, when last heard from. Searchers found the wreckage late Wednesday near Cape Nome, 15 miles south of here.

Schweppes discovers Canada... and vice versa!

Two years and a few brief months ago, Schweppes roving emissary, Commander Whitehead, brought Schweppes Tonic Water to these thirsty shores.

Canadians tasted Schweppes delicious bitter-sweet flavour. Discovered Schweppes — those exuberant little bubbles that tickle the palate and delight the soul. And made it practically unconstitutional to make a tonic drink without Schweppes Tonic Water.

Schweppes carbonation sets an international standard. Schweppes is locked-in! It lasts the whole drink through. Schweppes bubbles never waste themselves exploding in the bottle... or even in your glass, as long as you don't disturb it. But when you drink Schweppes, you'll find each little bubble bursts upon your tongue, heightening the flavour of your tonic drink.

Remember, Schweppes Tonic Water costs no more than ordinary brands, and it is bottled here under the eagle-eye of Commander Whitehead from the original imported elixir.

P.S. Schweppes also make the emperor of all the Ginger Ales, and a great Club Soda. Enjoy the whole family of Schweppes world-famous beverages — Schweppes Tonic Water, Schweppes Dry Ginger Ale and Schweppes Club Soda.

To Make Movies From Spot News

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD (AP). — Launching a new career as an independent producer, Darryl F. Zanuck is once again snatching his film subjects from the headlines.

His next three films:

1. Island in the Sun, which deals with the hot topics of miscegenation and colonialism.
2. Parris Island, the story of the drowning of the U.S. marine recruits.

3. I Married Stalin, depicting the monstrous crimes of the Russian dictator as seen through the eyes of his two wives.

Zanuck discussed these and other subjects during a rare interview in his king-size office at 20th Century-Fox. Dressed in casual sports clothes, he sat at a large desk, rising occasionally to pace into an adjacent room.

"I'm going right back to the field where I have had my biggest success," he remarked. "I have found that when I have stuck close to controversy I have had great luck."

Zanuck was asked about the prospects in the southern states for Island in the Sun, which deals frankly with negro-white relations.

"That doesn't worry me," he said. "They said we couldn't show Pinksy in the South, but it was one of our biggest grossers down there."

"The same was true with The Desert Fox. It was a glorification of Rommel, yet it did terrific business in England."

Island in the Sun, which will star James Mason, Joan Fontaine, Michael Rennie, Harry Belafonte and Dorothy Dandridge, was described by Zanuck as a massive operation. He will transport over 100 technicians to the West Indies and will make six round trips to London, where the rushes will be processed.

MOVIE WORLD

By ERSKINE JOHNSON
NEA Hollywood Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD (NEA) — On stage, Offstage and Upstage: Young Don Murray, who clicked as the rodeo rider opposite Marilyn Monroe in "Bus Stop," is yearning for heavy drama, too.

His big celluloid desire is to star in the life of composer Beethoven. But right now it's "Bar Stop" for Don. Well, anyway, that's what the crew of "The Bachelor Party" is calling the film after shooting sequences in four different bar sets. Paddy ("Marty") Chayefsky's latest film plot is about four gents painting the town red and night before a pal's marriage, and it's one bar stop after another.

It's back to readin' and writin' for the Hollywood kiddies, and every time the fall school bells ring in Movietown, I chuckle about two youngsters talking during recess.

"How do you like your new daddy?" asked one.

"Fine," was the reply.

"I thought you would," said the first lad, "we had him last term."

THE WITNET: Smiley Burnette was walking down the street in Nashville when a little boy stopped to ask him: "Are not you Smokey Brunet?"

NOT IN THE SCRIPT: Anthony Quinn, back from movie-making in Europe: "It's like getting back into a pressure cooker. Hollywood is the ulcer capital of the world."

Film version of the controversial "The Naked and the Dead," will skip the box office value of dollars. It's still an all-male plot—the screen play of which was just completed by Denis and Terry Sanders. Former comedian Benny Rubin's moved up into the big league as a Los Angeles stock salesman, specializing in mutual funds. . . . Movie, TV and radio actress Colleen Collins just celebrated "by actual count" her 5,000th acting performance in Hollywood. If you remember my 1941 CBS radio show, "Tonight in Hollywood," you'll recall Colleen's slick emoting.

Bancroft Dies at 74

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP). — George Bancroft, 74, one of the roughest and toughest of the movie "heavies," died Tuesday.

Bancroft, a gunner aboard the Baltimore in the Battle of Manila Bay in the Spanish-American War, came to Hollywood in 1922 and became one of the screen's hardest-working actors. He had important roles in scores of films, among them "Mr. Deeds Goes to Town," "Angels With Dirty Faces," "Stagecoach," "Each Dawn I Die" and "Rulers of the Sea."

LONDON (Reuters). — Marilyn Monroe kissed Sir Laurence Olivier in front of the movie cameras — and nearly every British national newspaper Wednesday found space for a photograph of the momentous occasion.

One newspaper, the News Chronicle, is critical of their osculatory attempt—a polite peck. "Never in the history of motion pictures have so many fans been kept waiting so long for such a little kiss," it says.

In the picture, The Sleeping Prince, Marilyn plays an American chorus girl in London who is

'Enraptured' British Bigwigs Cheer Bolshoi's Grand Ballet

LONDON (Reuters)—A distinguished audience Wednesday night gave the Russian Bolshoi Theatre ballet an overwhelming ovation on a night in which two weeks ago Anglo-Soviet bickering were forgiven and forgotten.

The company presented Prokofiev's "Romeo and Juliet" at the Royal Opera House, Covent Garden, on a grand scale not seen for many years in Britain. Galina Ulanova, Russia's leading prima ballerina, enchanted the audience.

The almost legendary Soviet star took two curtain calls from an enraptured house which included Prime Minister Eden and Lady Eden, 14 ambassadors and leaders of British social and cultural life.

Ulanova, dancing Juliet, took two curtain calls with her partner, Yuri Zhdanov, dancing Romeo, and then another curtain call alone.

The performance was the first appearance of the Bolshoi company in the West in the 180 years of the Russian theatre's history.

Thousands of Britons, unlucky at getting tickets or just curious to be on hand, watched the arrival of celebrities. Ballet-lovers waved £1 notes at ticket-holders in hopes of doing business.

Whether the Bolshoi company would make the date had been in doubt until late last week following a threat that the Bolshoi artists would call the trip off because of the case of Soviet woman discus-thrower, Nina Ponomareva, still hiding out after being charged with stealing five cheap hats from a London store.

Mine Reopening Decision Oct. 17

Jordan River Scene of Joint CMS, Noranda Copper Project

Two of Canada's biggest mining companies have teamed up to finance development of property at Jordan River it was learned today.

Consolidated Mining and Smelting Co. of Canada and Noranda Mines Ltd. will spend about $600,000 on a mine entrance if the plan is approved by shareholders at a meeting Oct. 17.

The agreement provides for Consolidated to assume 85 per cent of the development and Noranda 15 per cent.

The development company would be called Sunro Mines Ltd.

Mining will be for copper. A subsidiary of Consolidated owns 30 copper claims at the mouth of Jordan River which was last worked in 1931, but it is believed at least 1,000,000 tons of ore is still to be explored.

Mr. Schwerdt paid them for both claims and expenses, and Noranda this year has spent close to $60,000 on development helicopter.

BETWEEN TIMES

By

MONTE ROBERTS

I have been subjected to a certain amount of criticism lately about the top of my head.

It is not the top of my head, per se, which is criticized, but it is what I wear on the top of my head.

Namely, my summertime straw hat.

People keep asking me, why on earth are you still wearing your summertime straw hat?

Do you not know that summertime is over, people ask me.

Well, to clear up the matter for all time, and to stop this carping criticism from people who follow me around the streets, hooting and jeering, I will explain why I am still wearing my summertime straw hat.

What is more, I will try to explain why I intend to continue wearing my summertime straw hat until it disintegrates.

The reason is, I like summertime and I do not like wintertime.

Summertime brings all sorts of good things, such as fresh strawberries, sun-tan, and girls in their summer dresses.

With the possible exception of the joyous yuletide, winter brings nothing but gloom, colds in the head, and broken legs from slipping on icy sidewalks.

For nigh unto 50 years I have suffered, grumbling, through winter after winter, disliking each succeeding winter more than the winter before.

This year, I have decided against having a winter.

I have figured out winter is nothing but a state of mind.

If I ignore winter, winter is liable to ignore me.

Therefore, I am thinking only in terms of summertime, so, naturally, on top of my head I am continuing to wear my summertime straw hat.

I am convinced this is a commendable example of positive thinking.

There is one small drawback, I will admit. It is a difficult job for one man to ignore winter all by himself.

It is a job requiring the united efforts of group positive thinking.

If only all the constituents would think summer, and wear their summertime straw hats, I am sure winter would sink away defeated, taking with it its gloom, colds in the head, and broken legs.

In fact, once winter sensed the mass of positive thinking opposed to it—as symbolized by wearing of summertime straw hats—winter wouldn't even come.

Until that happy day, please do not sneer and jeer at my summertime straw hat. Pay due respect, instead, to one man's effort to DO something about the weather.

VICTORIA, B.C., THURSDAY, OCTOBER 4, 1956 17

Mayor Firm On Refusing Land to Aged

To give free land to one group of old age pensioners would be a hardship to many other senior citizens who are now struggling to meet their taxes, Mayor Percy Scurrell said today.

He was replying, from Penitence, to criticisms offered at a Victoria Labor Council meeting Wednesday night. Speakers at the meeting deplored the mayor's recent stand that the city should not donate free land to Senior Citizens' Campaign Council.

The senior citizens' group had asked the city to grant land on Harriett Road for construction of a low rent housing project.

Last spring city council indicated support. More recently the mayor told the group that aldermen now felt no city lands should be given away.

Wednesday night, Local 1598, United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America, asked Victoria Labor Council to do all possible to make the city fathers change their minds. The labor council said it would seek additional information before committing itself to support or dropping the issue.

Mayor Scurrell, speaking from the Union of B.C. Municipalities convention at Penitence, clarified his stand.

"What I said was I detected a change of attitude or behalf of the aldermen. A feeling has developed that it isn't wise to give assets of the city away."

"It wouldn't solve the problem for the senior citizens. It would only help a small portion at the expense of other taxpayers."

"Many of these taxpayers are themselves old pensioners struggling to keep their homes."

Mayor Scurrell explained that the lots desired by the Senior Citizens' Council have a market value of $1,000 each. Their sale provides funds for city projects which otherwise would have to be paid for by tax revenues. If these lots are given away, taxes would increase to the detriment of many old-age home-owners.

"There is a lot of logic in this," the mayor added.

He referred to the carpenters' statement that the mayor is supporting a Kiwanis project.

NO GIFT

"We have never discussed the Kiwanis. The city has not given them anything."

The carpenters' letter said the city's "about-face on a very worthy case is deplorable."

Retail clerks' delegate John Aubry suggested the city sell land for a nominal price, such as $1 a lot, and that there be "no further hair-splitting on this."

Senior Citizens' Campaign Council will be asked its interpretation of the mayor's promise to give land.

The labor council executive recommended further inquiry be made of the city with regard to off-street parking for Victoria.

FRIDAY MEETINGS

Capital City Commercial Club: Pacific Club, luncheon at noon.

HEALTH PLAN LAYMEN CONTROL OPPOSED BY DOCTORS' LEADER

Canada's medical profession will oppose any move to establish outright laymen control of the national health scheme, newly-elected president of the B.C. division, Canadian Medical Association, Dr. G. C. Johnson, Vancouver, said here today.

The 53-year-old doctor said this was one of the major problems facing his 1,400 member organization.

He said the medical men are not opposed to the national health scheme as long as it "preserves the fundamental principles and doctor-patient relationship."

The scheme, he said, should be contributory with the right of selection by the patient of his doctor, and vice versa.

Cobalt Bomb Useless As Lung Cancer Cure

The cobalt bomb or any other type of high voltage therapy is useless in curing lung cancer, Dr. Edouard D. Gagnon, of Montreal Notre Dame Hospital, said here today.

He addressed the B.C. Division, Canadian Medical Association convention under way in the Empress Hotel, on "Is Surgery for Lung Cancer Worthwhile?"

"The only cure is based on early surgery and this means early diagnosis," he said.

He advocated a twice yearly X-ray for all men over 40. A recent survey in Montreal of 192 lung cancer victims, showed 55.4 per cent of these were males.

There is no explanation for this high figure, he said.

Under 40, lung cancer incidence is "negligible."

X-ray once yearly, he said, is "not enough" as lung cancer can give no symptoms for several months.

If you are X-rayed for tuberculosis, the medical men examining the plates don't stop with evidence for or against TB, he said. If you have lung cancer symptoms, you will be told.

Danger signals are changes in respiratory or coughing habits in men past 40. These should be investigated.

Lung cancer is one cancer of the body that can be easily detected, so with frequent X-rays can be picked up before the advanced stage.

DOCTOR RAPS CUSTOM Retirement at 65 'Biologically' Wrong

Compulsory retirement at age 65 is not biologically sound, Dr. Ian Macdonald, physician-in-chief, Sunnybrook Hospital, Toronto, and assistant professor of medicine at University of Toronto, said here today.

The chronological age, he is all that many of them have in common.

"I'd like to see a system where a man can keep working as he is fit to the limits of his capacity."

People today are not living longer, there are just more people living longer, he said.

"We are living the same time in the over-all analysis as we did 100 years ago, but more people are living longer because there are more people, and we have fairly well eliminated the infectious diseases."

Regardless of age, nobody ever really wants to die, he said, "though some may say they do."

Interest in the world and reasonable activity prolongs life.

Age is surrounded by a lot of outmoded traditional beliefs said the doctor who today addressed the B.C. division, Canadian Medical Association, on care of the elderly patient.

For instance, if grandfather wants to go out to a hockey game which starts at 8:30 p.m., let him. Don't regiment the elderly, and molly-coddle them, he said.

"They are not in their second childhood. They've been around."

The attempt to wrap older folks in a cocoon of care merely makes them feel "precarious," which isn't a sound psychological idea, he said.

It is because of this feeling of precariousness, so many of the elderly turn to religion. They want something that is all their own to handle as they wish—not something that is forced upon them due solely to their piled up years.

In homes for the aged, Dr. Macdonald advocated "a very careful attempt be made to put people of similar interests together." There is nothing so frustrating, as an old lumberjack under the same roof with a dozen retired clergymen.

One strong argument for continued work after the usual retirement age is the fact the percentage of the elderly is increasing, and this means taxes from the working force must support many of them.

This is hardly just and fair economically, Dr. Macdonald indicated.

He termed "dreadful" such terms as "Old Folks Home," and likened it to an institution in Toronto called until recently "Home for Incurable Children."

"Appalling," he said.

Students to Get Physical Tests

Famed Kraus-Weber Plan To Gauge Youth Fitness

Physical fitness of Victoria elementary school children will be measured next spring against the same abilities of children in the United States and parts of Europe.

Both boys and girls will be given Kraus-Weber tests—the same tests which proved in 1954 that American children are less muscular than their counterparts in Italy and Austria.

Results were so astonishing President Eisenhower ordered special committees to give the matter more study. The results have been discussed in many 61 school board.

Clinic Establishment Studied

Decision to conduct the test was reached at a CAHPER meeting Wednesday night. The group also listed in its year's program setting up of a clinic in synchronized swimming, rhythmic exercises and team games as well as the possible establishment here of a remedial centre for postural defects.

The Kraus-Weber tests give a grading on back and abdominal strength. Applied to 2,000 Italian and Australian children, 8.2 per cent failed at least one test and 3 per cent failed two or more. Age group tested was six to 19.

The tests were originated by Dr. Hans Kraus, an associate professor of New York University. They were conducted on both continents by Ruth Hirschland of the NYU Research Institution of Physical Medicine and Rehabilitation.

Hope Other Areas To Follow

The findings indicated to Dr. Kraus there should be further research of geographical incidence. It might be found that children in one country or area do not have the same muscular ability as children from another.

"We hope they will stimulate similar research in other areas of Canada," said Fred Martin, chairman of the CAHPER testing committee. He is physical education instructor at Victoria College.

The tests include simple exercises such as ability to raise trunk and legs while the body is prone on the floor, or sitting erect from the prone position while another person holds one's ankles. Touching the floor with the fingertips is another test.

Another CAHPER committee, headed by Bob McKee, is in charge of arrangements for an exhibition to be given here by the world-travelled Sofia girls' gymnast team of Sweden.

The girls will appear at Central Junior High School Saturday, October 13. CAHPER members are selling tickets and they will also be sold at city department stores.

ROTARIANS HEAR EDITOR

Free Press Key To Free Country

The press, which is usually the first victim of dictatorship, is also the strongest safeguard against dictatorship, Brian A. Tobin, assistant editor of the Times, told a luncheon meeting of Victoria Rotary Club in Empress Hotel today.

"Keep your press free and you will keep your country free," he said in the course of a national Newspaper Week address.

"In totalitarian states, the ears of the public hear only what the governing regime wishes them to hear. The eyes of the public see only what the government lets them see. The voice of the public is not heard at all. And the nose suffers from a chronic case of totalitarian adenoids."

Mr. Tobin pointed out that one of a newspaper's jobs is to have a keen nose for "whatever is rotten in Denmark."

He said he found it "astounding" how many forms of government, from local to national, like to impose restraints and restrictions on the free dissemination of news.

"The city council that bars the press from some of its meetings, even though these deal with the business of the public, is trying to impose a barrier between the public and its ears," he said. "The province which tries by legislation to control what a newspaper publishes is putting a gag on the mouth of the public."

"The national government which imposes restrictions on the press is interfering with a form of public expression as honorable and necessary as government itself."

Mr. Tobin emphasized the difference between the news and editorial pages. The news pages are devoted to news; it is on the editorial page the newspaper has its innings.

"A newspaper must have a recognized and consistent editorial policy," he said. "An editorial page that refuses to take a stand on important matters of the day is no good to the paper and no good to the community."

"Even when this stand is not popular with a section of the public, a reputable journal will stick to its beliefs, just as a reputable citizen will."

BRIAN TOBIN

"It is less important that a newspaper have the agreement of its readers than it have their respect. Before a paper can enjoy public respect, it must have self respect."

He suggested one of the easiest ways to assess the community value of the newspaper is to imagine your community without one.

He said the newspaper reflected the community and was like the community, else it would go out of business.

ASK THE TIMES

Q.—I notice that letters arriving in Victoria are stamped with the name of the place where they were posted, also the time and date, but no other information as to date, etc., on arrival. I am wondering what would happen in case of a lawsuit, in which it would be necessary to prove date and time of arrival of a letter in Victoria. No doubt you might refer me to the postmaster, but as I mention, it would be interesting to hear the Times' opinion.—W.W.J.

A.—The Times' opinion has no bearing on this matter, it being wholly one of fact. Information given this column by postoffice officials is as follows: Letters in a small postoffice where it is all general delivery, are date-stamped when received. In large city postoffices letters are not dated or stamped, but all general delivery letters are stamped on receipt as they are returned to the sender after two weeks, if not called for. Heraldic Symbols of the Queen's Royal Descent Displayed Here

Anyone versed in the science of heraldry is familiar with the Queen's Beasts.

Anyone who was in England at the time of the Coronation could have seen replicas of these beasts, a full six feet in height, arranged in a place of honor in front of the great window of the Abbey Annex, the assembly rooms specially built at the entrance to the church.

The same 10 heraldic beasts gained prominence, too, in the design of a priceless vase of fine china created by the British Pottery Manufacturers' Federation to honor the Coronation of Her Majesty the Queen. Original of the vase, superb in its workmanship, design and color, was presented to the Queen. Exact replicas went to each of the Queen's realms in the Commonwealth.

Design of the vase included the Royal Coat of Arms at the top flanked by the floral emblems of the four mother countries of the United Kingdom, the Tudor rose, the shamrock, the thistle and the leek. Next came the emblems of the seven Commonwealth countries, Canada, Australia, New Zealand, South Africa, India, Pakistan, Ceylon.

A crown surmounts the cover and around the base in gold-backed niches appear the beasts.

ONLY FEW SETS

The exquisite detail, the depth of color and the heraldic significance found in the 10 beasts, created a feeling amongst those who viewed the completed vases that a few sets of the beasts alone should be created.

It is one of these superb collections—produced by Minton—that is being introduced to Victoria this week by Woodward's Ltd.

The lion of England wears a royal crown and bears upon its shield the present Royal Arms of the United Kingdom; the griffin of Edward III is golden and bears a shield of the present royal livery colors, red and gold, upon which is the Round Tower of Windsor Castle, the badge of the present House of Windsor.

The falcon of the Plantagenets is silver with wings outspread. Its legs and beak are golden and it holds a shield of the livery colors of the House of York, blue and mulberry red. On these colors appear the same falcon within a golden fetterlock partly open.

The black bull of Clarence has hoofs and horns of gold and holds a shield of the Royal Arms as they were borne by the sovereigns of England from 1405 to 1603; the white lion of Mortimer holds a shield of the livery of the House of York, blue and mulberry red, and on Courtney Haddock, manager, and Mrs. E. Pauwels, china and glassware department head of Woodward's Ltd., admire the Queen's Beasts, each in a velvet-lined box that allows them to stand erect at all times. The set, a collector's dream, is now on view at the Douglas Street store.

of Scotland and the white horse of Hanover. The unicorn is milk-white with golden hoofs, horn, mane and tufts; about its neck is a royal coronet to which is attached a chain, also of gold. It supports a shield of the royal arms of former Scottish kings.

The white horse holds a shield of the royal arms of the United Kingdom as borne from 1714 to 1800.

The beasts used both in the design for the Queen's vase and for the Westminster Annex are only 10 out of the many which might have been called on to serve their Queen. They were chosen by experts as those that would best illustrate Her Majesty's royal descent.

Their bearing, especially in their places at the Abbey, gave them the appearance of sentinels proudly and very decoratively mounting guard over the place of the Queen's crowning until such time as Her Majesty should come there in fulfillment.

Such, indeed, was partly their purpose, but there was more to it than just that.

For each beast, could he but have spoken, has also a romantic tale to tell of the rhyme and reason for his being there. Ask anyone versed in the science of heraldry. They know these tales well.

Finally there is the unicorn

Mirrored Elegance Is Seen In Ornate Wall Accessories

By PENNY SAVER

The reflection of your good taste—that is what will be seen in the new framed wall mirrors that are perfect for the gracious living trend.

A molded wood product artistically made to look like metal and in a silver-grey finish outlines half the curved mirror. Matching wall candlesticks and similarly made wall brackets backed by smaller mirrors complete the motif. The large mirror is $11.95; the candlesticks, $5, and the wall brackets, $3.50.

Bone china cups and saucers are treasured pieces in every woman's china cabinet and a beautiful collection can be found in many a Victoria home. To add to the color, here's a bullfighter scene with the splash of color of the torador with flaming red cape as the cup pattern. There is a similar design on the saucer, tying the two together in a complete and attractive scene. The price is $4.

Feel frivolous? Well, it's debatable whether or not an occasional purchase to satisfy a fashion flare and whim is frivolous, but if you have the feeling that you want to buy something for yourself, something really feminine, then come along with me.

For the school crowd, here's a soft, pliable plastic binder and book cover that will keep out the rain. Stamped all over with school pennants and colors, these clear plastic bags will fold up neatly and can be tucked inside the loose-leaf binder if the sun comes out. They're yours for just 19 cents.

Needs, Work of Other Countries Shared in YWCA World Council

The world-wide work of the YWCA was presented in a colorful word picture by World YWCA executive member, Dr. Olga Jardine, at a luncheon in the "Y," Wednesday, Dr. Jardine was introduced by world service committee chairman, Mrs. F. McClement.

Since the first world meeting in 1897 with 20 countries represented, the organization has grown so that at the World

Council held at Royal Holloway College in England last year there were 300 representatives from 50 countries, the largest in the YWCA history, Dr. Jardine said.

"It was a marvelous privilege to have the opportunity to meet these women of other countries, to discuss Y work and compare problems and situations."

Typical costumes of the Asian countries lent a touch of color to all proceedings, and were especially noted during the area presentations where delegates told of needs or outstanding pieces of work in their area.

In the Asian countries, leadership is the greatest need, Dr. Jardine explained. An Asian leadership conference being held this year has given hope of new personalities and leaders. Many Asian groups are forming classes for the underprivileged and for the handicapped.

COLOMBO PLAN

In New Zealand and Australia work with Asian students there under the Colombo plan is of main interest. In the bigger Australian cities decentralization of the Y is catching on, so that rural and suburban districts benefit from the planned activities. In New Zealand, great emphasis has been put on the strides made to integrate new New Zealanders.

It was noted that in the Caribbean areas, Canadian funds are the mainstay. This is where most of Canada's efforts are directed. In the Middle East a new residence has been opened in Baghdad. "But there is a desperate refugee situation in Jordan," the speaker said.

In Lebanon and Beirut there have been opened vocational schools for girls.

A new seven-story girls' residence has been built in Greece, and it was stated that in a few months after the establishment of the Y in this country there were over 3,000 members.

BUILDING HOSTELS

A new project in Britain is the building of hostels for women over 25 who, because of the under-25 restrictive age in regular YWCA's, cannot live in the established homes. These are planned to be more like a home, without restrictive time elements. In the Scandinavian countries the Y activities are more rural and in many cases they are joint YM-YW projects.

There is a need for help on the Gold Coast, Sierra Leone, Nigeria and Uganda. "There has been fine development and outstanding achievements" in the Y field in that area.

In closing, Dr. Jardine said, "The world meeting showed the work that could be and has been done in this Christian organization in the many parts of the world where fellowship, through this medium, was felt between the races."

KATE IS COMING

Word has been received that Mrs. Kate Aitken, world traveler, newspaper woman, famed radio commentator and author, will be in Victoria in the last week of October. Her visit will coincide with the appearance in the stores of her new book, "Never So Bright a Day," a story of her girlhood, which is off the press this weekend. Mrs. Aitken will be guest of honor at an autographing party in the Victoria Room of T. Eaton Company store on Friday, Oct. 26.

Groom's Gift Worn by Bride

A mother-of-pearl necklace, gift of her bridegroom, was jewelry worn by Dorothy Eleanor Fair, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Fair, 2641 Forbes Street, when she became the bride of Norman William Dmytruk, son of Mr. and Mrs. Steve Dmytruk, 1610 Haultain Street. Rev. C. B. Smith conducted the ceremony in Glad Tidings Tabernacle, which was decorated with floral arrangements of gladioli and chrysanthemums.

During signing of the register, Dick Goodwin sang "To-gether With Jesus," accompanied by organist Mrs. Goodwin.

The bride wore a gown of lace over taffeta, its neckline trimmed with mother-of-pearl sequins. The bouffant skirt of combined lace and net swept to the floor and the fitted bolero jacket of lace featured a small, pointed collar. A mother-of-pearl tiara held her fingertip veil and she carried a white Bible mounted with a mauve orchid with sprigs of heather knotted in the streamers.

Maid of honor, Miss Margaret Stewart, Abbotsford, and bridesmaid, Miss Ruth Shiner, Brentwood Bay, wore gowns of tiered net over taffeta with fitted taffeta bolero jackets, in yellow and mauve respectively. Their headresses matched their gowns and they carried bouquets of chrysanthemums, Miss Stewart's in mauve, and Miss Shiner's in yellow.

Flower girl, Miss Sylvia Jean Richmond, wore a pale blue nylon dress and carried a bouquet of pink chrysanthemums.

Roy Richmond was best man and Bob Haskins and Len Dmytruk, brother of the groom, were ushers.

At the reception in McEwen's Tartan Room, toast to the bride was proposed by George Edgar.

For travelling to Parksville on honeymoon, the bride wore a dress of brown taffeta with yellow topcoat, yellow feather hat and brown accessories.

Mr. and Mrs. Dmytruk will live at 2706 Victor Street when they return.

GRIM SOUVENIR—When Mr. and Mrs. John E. Slattery of Rochester, N.Y., were touring New York city this summer, little did they think that their sight-seeing would produce this grim reminder of the Andrea Doria sinking. They shot a picture of Grant's Tomb, then toured the waterfront and snapped the ill-fated liner at her dock. It turned out to be the double-exposure seen above. (NE)

Skipper Challenges Doria Collision Story

NEW YORK (UP)—The captain of the Andrea Doria challenges the testimony of the Stockholm's third mate today with his account of the July 25-26 collision which took 50 lives at sea.

Capt. Piero Calamai appeared briefly for the first time Wednesday at the pre-trial hearings to fix the blame for the world's worst peacetime sea disaster since the sinking of the Titanic in 1912.

None of the Italian ship's crew who will be called as witnesses will be allowed in the courtroom during Calamai's testimony.

Third mate Ernst Carstens-Johannsen, who was in charge of the Stockholm at the time of the collision, was under cross-examination for most of his 11 days of testimony. He claimed the Andrea Doria could have avoided the collision by "proceeding straight ahead or turning to starboard" instead of veering left into the path of the onrushing Stockholm.

The third mate has testified the two ships approached port-to-port, that the night was clear and the moon was shining and the Stockholm was traveling at full speed (18 or 19 knots) with its radar properly functioning.

The Italian line claimed prior to the hearings that the vessels approached starboard-to-starboard, that the night was dark and foggy and that the Stockholm was 19 miles north of the prescribed route for eastbound Atlantic crossings.

Positions of the ships, weather precautions and interpretation of the international rules of the road will be the major factors in determining blame for the disaster.

U.S. Horses To Run in France

PARIS (Reuters)—The first American racehorses to be flown from the United States to France arrived Wednesday night to run in Sunday's $70,000 Grand Prix de l'Arc de Triomphe race at Longchamp.

They are Career Boy and Fisherman, both owned by C. V. Whitney.

LONDON (UP)—The 15-member Conservative "expanding Commonwealth group" urged Parliament today to tighten British economic ties with Europe and consider the idea of offering "associate membership" in the Commonwealth to friendly nations now not in the British sphere of influence.

The special parliamentary committee recommended a shift in the world balance of power which would weaken the century-old Anglo-American alliance.

"Either the Commonwealth will expand and grow or shrink and die," the committee warned in a report on a year's investigation of means of bringing new members into the Commonwealth.

The report said the Commonwealth could be strengthened by raising such territories as Hong Kong, Singapore and the Falkland Islands above colonial status to a full consultative level.

The report also recommended a shift in the world balance of power which would weaken the century-old Anglo-American alliance.

"Either the Commonwealth will expand and grow or shrink and die," the committee warned in a report on a year's investigation of means of bringing new members into the Commonwealth.

Commonwealth Ministers Consulted

Prime Minister Sir Anthony Eden and French Premier Guy Mollet are known to have discussed the plan at recent meetings. Chancellor of the Exchequer Harold Macmillan broached the idea to Commonwealth finance ministers in Washington last weekend.

Moves are already afoot toward tightening economic ties between the Commonwealth and Europe.

Six continental nations—France, West Germany, Italy and the Benelux nations—have been working on a customs union which would erase European present business boundaries as the first step toward uniting the continent.

Macmillan suggested the possibility of British membership in such a customs pool when he met Commonwealth finance ministers Saturday.

This in itself was a radical change in British thinking.

Hees Withdraws From Tory Race, Joins Diefenbaker Bandwagon

TRAIL, B.C. (CP)—George Hees today withdrew himself as a contender for the Progressive Conservative Party leadership, pledging his support to Saskatchewan lawyer John Diefenbaker as the man who can achieve "complete harmony and unity within our ranks."

Mr. Hees, 46-year-old Commons member for Toronto-Broadview, said Mr. Diefenbaker "will make the best possible leader for our party."

"I strongly urge him to run, and I pledge my support to him if he does," said Mr. Hees as he stepped down in favor of the 61-year-old member for Prince Albert, Sask., the Conservative Party's foreign affairs spokesman.

Mr. Hees issued his statement at Ottawa and at Trail, where he is on a two-week speaking tour of the four Western provinces.

His announcement aligned him with a Diefenbaker-for-leader movement within the Conservative Commons membership which took shape at Ottawa earlier this week following a meeting of the party's national association executive.

The meeting, attended by Mr. Hees, planned a convention in Ottawa during the week of Dec. 10 to choose a successor to Hon. George Drew who resigned because of ill-health.

LABOR PLANS PROBE

3rd Distiller Boosts Prices

A third distillery submitted increased prices on all brands of hard liquor today as members of the Victoria Labor Council objected to increases already announced.

At a meeting Wednesday, the council moved to establish a three-man committee to study reasons for the 16½ per cent higher price asked by distillers.

New prices were submitted today by Canadian Schenley Ltd., following example set by the House of Seagram and Alberta Distillers.

16½ PER CENT

All three firms propose to raise their prices by as much as 16½ per cent.

At the labor council meeting, retail clerk delegate John Aubrey objected to the manner in which the price increases had been presented. He said wage increases are usually responsible, but this is not true in this case.

Ed Haw, IWW delegate, said the increase is probably due to the fact distillers have control of all possible liquor outlets in the province and can't expand further.

Meanwhile, Col. Donald Mc-

can achieve "complete harmony and unity within our ranks."

EBBETS FIELD, Brooklyn—Better they should call Sal "the barber" Maglie, Sal "the incredible."

Sal Maglie's Own Story Of Victory

1ST IN 5 YEARS

Rain Halts Series

NEW YORK (AP)—Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick ordered the postponement of today's second game of the world series between Brooklyn and New York Yankees because of a light rain and "menacing weather."

The second game will be played Friday at Ebbets Field with the forecast for fair weather.

It was the first postponement of world series game in five years. A Sunday game at the grounds in 1951 between the Yankees and New York Giants was postponed then because of rain.

If a world series game is started, the rules of baseball apply and five innings would constitute a game, 4½ innings if the home team is ahead.

Brooklyn's Don Newcombe and New York's Don Larsen, a pair of non-winning world series right-handers, will face each other in Friday's game.

The odd part though was the Dodgers and Yankees prepare for the second game of the series here Friday, rain dampening the festivities today, is that the Dodgers fans took their victory with just a touch of glibness.

They expected it of the Dodgers. The gamblers, however, still say the Yankees will prevail. But try and tell that to the Dodgers fans. They whispered nicely when Mantle let go his home run into the parking lot in the first inning, but the feeling was: just wait, we haven't really had a chance to bat yet.

And Casey Stengel's off "professional pitcher." Whitey Ford, soon found out what they meant.

He wasn't a pro for very long.

But the real story was Maglie. His fast ball was nothing more than something to sneer at. His curve had a dinky dip.

British Ship Tieup Through Suez Feared

PORT SAID, Egypt (UP)—Egyptian authorities have cut off the local currency supplied to British shipping agents here because of Britain's sterling freeze, it was learned tonight.

The Egyptian action, taken as a retaliatory measure against the British blocking of Egyptian funds in the United Kingdom, has faced agents here with a financial crisis. It could lead to a complete holdup of British ships going through the Suez Canal.

Under the new regulations, all foreign currency transfers in Egypt must now be sanctioned by exchange control authorities—and sterling transfers are being turned down.

This means that shipping agents here can no longer draw local currency for sterling deposited in blocked accounts in London.

As a result, British shipping agents—who handle approximately 40 per cent of the canal traffic—can no longer pay local bills and were operating today on huge bank overdrafts.

Suez Ships Hours Late, 2nd Tieup

PORT SAID, Egypt (Reuters)—Suez Canal operations were delayed again today.

The first southbound convoy was six hours late starting, twice as late as Wednesday's first southbound convoy.

Fog and mishaps to two ships were blamed for Wednesday's delays.

All Daoud, transit chief of the Egyptian Suez Canal Authority, confirmed reports that the 4,800-ton Panamanian freighter Archaon Michael was grounded in the canal for two hours and said the 11,110-ton Norwegian tanker Eli Knudsen was tied up for 20 minutes near Suez.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld of the United Nations is reported using his full influence to avert a showdown fight in the Security Council which might shut the door to further UN peace efforts in the Suez dispute.

Informed quarters say this is the main theme in the series of private talks Hammarskjöld is having with high-ranking diplomats assembling here for the Suez debate beginning in the Security Council Friday.

The secretary-general was understood today to have found substantial support, but Britain and France said they were determined to push their demands for UN endorsement of the plan for international control of the canal approved by the London conference in mid-August.

RUSS LUMBER CHIEFS LAND, COMING HERE
MONTREAL (CP)—Waving merrily and wearing jovial grins, a delegation of Russian lumber officials headed by Lumber Minister G. M. Orlov, arrived today for a tour of Canada.

The seven stepped from their transatlantic aircraft and were greeted by chief representatives of the Canadian Lumbermen's Association and Russian Ambassador Dimitri Chuvahin. Heading the Canadians was CLA president Roy Halliday of Toronto, who recently led a group of Canadian lumber officials on a tour of Russia covering some 8,000 miles.

The Russians head westward for Banff, Oct. 16, arriving in Vancouver Oct. 18. After a busy visit in British Columbia, including a day in Victoria as guests of B.C. government, they will go to Ottawa for Oct. 27 conferences.

NEAR-RIOT occurred at rock 'n' roll session at Toronto's Maple Leaf Gardens. Trouble started when 13,500 screaming fans protested the police eviction (above) of a youth. LIVING COST INDEX DIPS

OTTAWA (CP)—Living costs declined slightly in August from their record high level of July, forced down by lower food prices of harvest time. The Bureau of Statistics today reported its consumer price index, based on 1949 prices equaling 100, reached a mark of 119 for August, down one-tenth of a point from the July level of 119.1, which it had reached following three consecutive monthly increases.

JERUSALEM (AP)—Israeli officials said the crowded Haifa-Jerusalem passenger train was attacked Wednesday night by rifle and machine-gun fire from across the Jordan border. The train engineer was the only casualty.

The wounded man, hit in the leg by a ricocheting bullet, put on full speed and piloted the train for another six miles, until it reached Lydda.

The incident occurred in the Israeli coastal plain about 35 miles south of Haifa.

Security forces aboard the train returned the fire.

"When the danger was over the passengers got up again and began to sing," witnesses reported.

Israel announced Wednesday that its delegate would attend no more meetings of the Israeli-Jordan armistice commission. The foreign ministry charged the United Nations truce organization with "steady attempts . . . to equalize acts of Jordan aggression with justified Israeli measures of self-defence."

Increase in Liquor Price Guessed at Around 15 Cents

Proposed liquor price increase is not on the price per bottle at the liquor store, but on the basic producers' price. The Times was advised today.

This means that cost per bottle of gin, or the cheaper ryes, might approximate 15 cents, rather than the 50 cents some consumers had feared.

Distillers' in-bond selling price of a case of gin, for example, is about $7.40. To this is added Dominion of Canada excise tax of $12 a gallon ($15.60), a manufacturers' tax of 10 per cent, government freight charge and provincial sales tax of 5 per cent.

Provincial government profit of approximately 50 per cent brings the consumer price in the area of $3.41 a bottle.

If the proposed price increase of 15 per cent is granted, it will apply to the basic sale price per case, and will also boost excise and sales tax revenues by a few pennies.

Possibility that the government may take an added cent or two profit, in bringing the retail store price to round figures, envisages a cost-per-bottle increase of about 15 cents, in the categories mentioned.

COMMUNITY CHEST RACE

Saskatoon Takes Up Victoria Challenge

Saskatoon told Victoria today it will race to see which city is first to realize its Community Chest objective.

A telegram to City Hall today from Prairie Mayor J. D. McAskil said:

"Saskatoon is not afraid to tackle Victoria. Your challenge is accepted."

The Red Feather feud grew from a hat-betting contest at the Union of B.C. Municipalities convention at Pentecost, Wednesday.

Word arrived at Pentecost the mayor of Edmonton was willing to bet a Stetson his city would be first to fill its chest. Mayor Fred Hume of Vancouver said he'd bet a Panama hat on his city's generosity.

Mayor Percy Scourrah then threw down the glove. He said he would buy a silk topper for the mayor of anyone of five western cities which can beat Victoria to its Comchest objective. He challenged Vancouver, Edmonton, Winnipeg, Saskatoon and Regina.

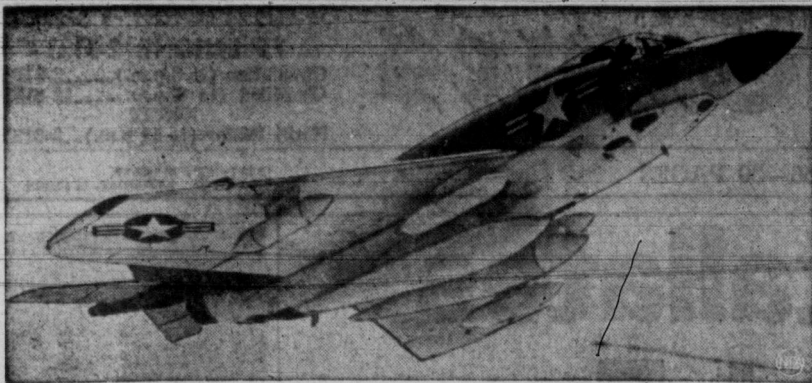

Chesty Chest officials in Victoria are bragging meanwhile about the rapid climb in local totals.

At noon over 18 per cent of the $220,000 objective was in the bag. Indicative of increased giving this year is the response by employees of the provincial department of municipal affairs which today doubled their gift of last year.

Goal $220,000
Today $39,818

Experts to Examine Strip-Teaser Scars

PARIS (AP)—A court Wednesday appointed three experts to examine strip-teaser Sonia Silver to determine whether, as she claimed, an operation left disfiguring scars across her stomach.

Maitre Rene Floriot, her lawyer, told the court: "Because of a doctor, the daring but advantageous paths of this kind of spectacle are henceforth closed to her."

Sonia, a pretty blonde, was said to have requested the operation to flatten her stomach. The result, it was claimed, was the disfiguring scar.

Amount of the damages claimed was not disclosed in court.

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—City police figured it wasn't venison from Denison, but veal from a steal.

Officers found three men skinning an animal in a North Dallas back yard Wednesday. The men said it was a deer they ran over near Denison, not far from here.

But there's more than one way to tell a skinned calf from a fawn, and the officers suspected cattle rustling.

The veal was placed in an icebox for safe keeping and three suspects were put "on ice" at the city jail while charges are prepared.

VIENNA (Reuters) — A man wrote to a Hungarian newspaper saying that Hungarian customs officials ordered him to open every can of sardines he had brought to Hungary to feed his family.

When he complained, they agreed he need not open all the cans provided those unopened were given as a gift to the Hungarian state.

He said the officials wanted the cans opened because they feared spies might bring back messages from abroad in sealed sardine cans.

PENTICTON (CP)—Motor licence plates in 1958 will blossom forth in green on gold in B.C. to mark this province's centenary, it was announced here today.

Municipal Act Revision Talks Set for Oct. 18 in Victoria

PENTICTON (CP)—Revision of the Municipal Act to allow for establishment of metropolitan areas will not be dealt with at the annual convention of the Union of B.C. Municipalities now in session here.

Burnaby Reeve C. W. MacSorley, chairman of UBCM's Municipal Act revision committee, announced today the section dealing with metropolitan areas will be reviewed by his committee and Municipal Affairs Minister Wesley Black at a special meeting, Oct. 18.

Mr. MacSorley said the meeting had been called by Mr. Black and will probably be held in Victoria.

Speaking at the 53rd annual UBCM convention, Mr. MacSorley said more than 1,000 sections of the act have been reviewed by his committee, but that the metropolitanization section had not been touched.

He said the new act "will be supreme in the field of municipal legislation" and has been shaped "to prevent the damaging effect on local governments when senior governments invade the fields of endeavor best handled at the local level."

One proposed change would have elected parks boards replaced by council-appointed boards and elected police commissions replaced by appointed boards, he said.

Most municipalities have already been notified of a further increase in contract costs in 1957, he said.

Per capita cost of RCMP policing is the same in all municipal contracts across Canada, he said.

Elderly persons who are short of fuel or require special diets and destitute families in need of temporary housing are given assistance by the St. Vincent de Paul Society, a Red Feather agency.

Mine Reopening Decision Oct. 17

Jordan River Scene of Joint CMS, Noranda Copper Project

Two of Canada's biggest mining companies have teamed up to finance development of property at Jordan River it was learned today.

Consolidated Mining and Smelting Co. of Canada and Noranda Mines Ltd. will spend about $600,000 on a mine entrance if the plan is approved by shareholders at a meeting Oct. 17.

The agreement provides for Consolidated to assume 85 per cent of the development and Noranda 15 per cent.

The development company would be called Sunro Mines Ltd.

Mining will be for copper. A subsidiary of Consolidated owns 30 copper claims at the mouth of Jordan River which was last worked in 1931, but it is believed at least 1,000,000 tons of ore are still to be explored.

According to one report, Noranda this year has spent close to $60,000 on development of the property and engineers have been in the field off and on for three years.

The ore body was discovered by a veteran mining man, George E. Winkler, and two companies were organized for exploration, Sunloch and Gabro Mines.

These companies would be incorporated as Sunro for the development.

Earlier this year an estimated 320 mining claims in the Jordan River area were staked by loggers of the Sooke-Jordan River district on behalf of Peter Schwerdt, Vancouver and Toronto speculator in oil and mining properties.

Mr. Schwerdt paid them for both claims and expenses, and flew them to various sites by helicopter.

BETWEEN TIMES By MONTE ROBERTS

I have been subjected to a certain amount of criticism lately about the top of my head.

It is not the top of my head, per se, which is criticized, but it is what I wear on the top of my head.

Namely, my summertime straw hat.

People keep asking me why on earth are you still wearing your summertime straw hat?

Do you not know that summer is over, people ask me.

Well, to clear up the matter for all time, and to stop this carping criticism from people who follow me around the streets, hooting and jeering, I will explain why I am still wearing my summertime straw hat.

What is more, I will try to explain why I intend to continue wearing my summertime straw hat until it disintegrates.

The reason is, I like summertime and I do not like wintertime.

Summertime brings all sorts of good things, such as fresh strawberries, sun-tan, and girls in their summer dresses.

With the possible exception of the joyous yuletide, winter brings nothing but gloom, colds in the head, and broken legs from slipping on icy sidewalks.

For nigh unto 50 years I have suffered, grumbling, through winter after winter, disliking each succeeding winter more than the winter before.

This year, I have decided against having a winter.

I have figured out winter is nothing but a state of mind. If I ignore winter, winter is liable to ignore me.

Therefore, I am thinking only in terms of summertime, so, naturally, on top of my head I am continuing to wear my summertime straw hat.

I am convinced this is a commendable example of positive thinking.

There is one small drawback, I will admit. It is a difficult job for one man to ignore winter all by himself.

It is a job requiring the united efforts of group positive thinking.

If only all the constituents would think summer, and wear their summertime straw hats, I am sure winter would sink away defeated, taking with it its gloom, colds in the head, and broken legs.

In fact, once winter sensed the mass of positive thinking opposed to it—as symbolized by wearing of summertime straw hats—winter wouldn't even come.

Until that happy day, please do not sneer and jeer at my summertime straw hat. Pay due respect, instead, to one man's effort to DO something about the weather.

Mayor Firm On Refusing Land to Aged

To give free land to one group of old age pensioners would be a hardship to many other senior citizens who are now struggling to meet their taxes, Mayor Percy Scourrah said today.

He was replying, from Penticton, to criticisms offered at a Victoria Labor Council meeting Wednesday night. Speakers at the meeting deplored the mayor's recent stand that the city should not donate free land to Senior Citizens' Campaign Council.

The senior citizens' group had asked the city to grant land on Harriett Road for construction of a low rent housing project. Last spring city council indicated support. More recently the mayor told the group that aldermen now felt no city lands should be given away.

Wednesday night, Local 1598, United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America, asked Victoria Labor Council to do all possible to make the city fathers change their minds. The labor council said it would seek additional information before committing itself to support or dropping the issue.

Mayor Scourrah, speaking from the Union of B.C. Municipalities convention at Penticton, clarified his stand.

"What I said was I detected a change of attitude on the part of the aldermen. A feeling has developed that it isn't wise to give assets of the city away."

"It wouldn't solve the problem for the senior citizens. It would only help a small portion at the expense of other taxpayers."

"Many of these taxpayers are themselves old pensioners struggling to keep their homes."

Mayor Scourrah explained that the lots desired by the Senior Citizens' Council have a market value of $1,000 each. Their sale provides funds for city projects which otherwise would have to be paid for by tax revenues. If these lots are given away, taxes would increase to the detriment of many old-age homeowners.

"There is a lot of logic in this," the mayor added.

He referred to the carpenters' statement that the mayor is supporting a Kiwanis project.

NO GIFT

"We have never discussed the Kiwanis. The city has not given them anything."

The carpenters' letter said the city's "about-face on a very worthy cause is deplorable."

Retail clerks' delegate John Aubrey suggested the city sell land for a nominal price, say $1 a lot, and that there be "no further hair-splitting on this."

Senior Citizens' Campaign Council will be asked its interpretation of the mayor's promise to give land.

The labor council executive recommended further inquiry be made of the city with regard to off-street parking for Victoria.

HEALTH PLAN LAYMEN CONTROL OPPOSED BY DOCTORS' LEADER

Canada's medical profession will oppose any move to establish outright laymen control of the national health scheme, newly-elected president of the B.C. division, Canadian Medical Association, Dr. G. C. Johnson, Vancouver, said here today.

The 53-year-old doctor said this was one of the major problems facing his 1,400 member organization.

He said the medical men are not opposed to the national health scheme as long as it "preserves the fundamental principles and doctor-patient relationship."

The scheme, he said, should be contributory with the right of selection by the patient of his doctor, and vice versa.

Cobalt Bomb Useless As Lung Cancer Cure

The cobalt bomb or any other type of high voltage therapy is useless in curing lung cancer, Dr. Edouard D. Gagnon, of Montreal's Notre Dame Hospital, said here today.

He addressed the B.C. Division, Canadian Medical Association convention under way in the Empress Hotel, on "Is Surgery for Lung Cancer Worthwhile?"

"The only cure is based on early surgery and this means early diagnosis," he said.

He advocated a twice yearly X-ray for all men over 40. A 192 lung cancer victims, showed 85.4 per cent of these were males.

There is no explanation for this high figure, he said.

Under 40, lung cancer incidence is "negligible."

X-ray once yearly, he said, is "not enough" as lung cancer can give no symptoms for several months.

If you are x-rayed for tuberculosis, the medical men examining the plates don't stop with evidence for or against TB, he said. If you have lung cancer symptoms, you will be told.

Danger signals are changes in respiratory or coughing habits in men past 40. These should be investigated.

Lung cancer is one cancer of the body that can be easily detected, so with frequent x-rays can be picked up before the advanced stage.

DOCTOR RAPS CUSTOM

Retirement at 65 'Biologically' Wrong

Compulsory retirement at age 65 is not biologically sound, Dr. Ian Macdonald, physician-in-chief, Sunnybrook Hospital, Toronto, and assistant professor of medicine at University of Toronto, said here today.

The chronological age, he said, is all that many of them have in common.

"I'd like to see a system where a man can keep working as he is fit to the limits of his capacity."

People today are not living longer, there are just more people living longer, he said.

"We are living the same time in the overall analysis as we did 100 years ago, but more people are living longer because there are more people, and we have fairly well eliminated the infectious diseases."

Regardless of age, nobody ever really wants to die, he said, "though some may say they do."

Interest in the world and reasonable activity prolongs life.

Age is surrounded by a lot of outmoded traditional beliefs said the doctor who today addressed the B.C. division, Canadian Medical Association, on care of the elderly patient.

For instance, if grandfather wants to go out to a hockey game which starts at 8:30 p.m., let him. Don't regiment the elderly, and molly-coddle them, he said.

"They are not in their second childhood. They've been around."

The attempt to wrap older folks in a cocoon of care merely makes them feel "precarious," which isn't a sound psychological idea, he said.

It is because of this feeling of precariousness so many of the elderly turn to religion. They want something that is all their own to handle as they wish—nothing that is forced upon them due solely to their piled up years.

In homes for the aged, Dr. Macdonald advocated "a very careful attempt" be made to put people of similar interests together. There is nothing so frustrating, for an extreme instance, as an old lumberjack under the same roof with a dozen retired clergymen.

One strong argument for continued work after the usual retirement age is the fact the percentage of the elderly is increasing, and this means taxes from the working force must support many of them.

This is hardly just and fair economically, Dr. Macdonald indicated.

He termed "dreadful" such terms as "Old Folks Home" and likened it to an institution in Toronto called until recently "Home for Incurable Children."

"Appalling," he said.

Students to Get Physical Tests

Famed Kraus-Weber Plan To Gauge Youth Fitness

Physical fitness of Victoria elementary school children will be measured next spring against the same abilities of children in the United States and parts of Europe.

Both boys and girls will be given Kraus-Weber tests—the same tests which proved in 1954 that American children are less muscular than their counterparts in Italy and Austria.

Results were so astonishing President Eisenhower ordered special committees to give the matter more study. The results have been discussed in many U.S. national magazines recently.

The tests will be conducted in Victoria area by Canadian Association for Health, Physical Education and Recreation. The group is comprised of physical education teachers of local schools. It will work in close co-operation with District 61 school board.

Clinic Establishment Studied

Decision to conduct the test was reached at a CAHPER meeting Wednesday night. The group also listed in its year's program setting up of a clinic in synchronized swimming, rhythmic exercises and team games as well as the possible establishment here of a remedial centre for postural defects.

The Kraus-Weber tests give a grading on back and abdominal strength. Applied to 2,000 Italian and Australian children, 8.2 per cent failed at least one test and .3 per cent failed two or more. Age group tested was six to 19.

When the same tests were applied to a like number of United States children, of the same age group and economic group, 56.6 per cent failed one test and 16.4 per cent failed two or more.

Counting all failures, the ratio was 8.5 per cent of the European children as compared to 78.3 per cent of the American youngsters.

The tests were originated by Dr. Hans Kraus, an associate professor of New York University. They were conducted on both continents by Ruth Hirschland of the NYU Research Institution of Physical Medicine and Rehabilitation.

Hope Other Areas To Follow

The findings indicated to Dr. Kraus there should be further research of geographical incidence. It might be found that children in one country or area do not have the same muscular ability as children from another.

"We hope they will stimulate similar research in other areas of Canada," said Fred Martin, chairman of the CAHPER testing committee. He is physical education instructor at Victoria College.

The tests include simple exercises such as ability to raise trunk and legs while the body is prone on the floor, or sitting erect from the prone position while another person holds one's ankles. Touching the floor with the fingertips is another test.

Another CAHPER committee, headed by Bob McKee, is in charge of arrangements for an exhibition to be given here by the world-travelled Sofia girls' gymnast team of Sweden.

The girls will appear at Central Junior High School Saturday, October 13. CAHPER members are selling tickets and they will also be sold at city department stores.

ROTARIANS HEAR EDITOR

Free Press Key To Free Country

The press, which is usually the first victim of dictatorship, is also the strongest safeguard against dictatorship, Brian A. Tobin, assistant editor of the Times, told a luncheon meeting of Victoria Rotary Club in Empress Hotel today.

"Keep your press free and you will keep your country free," he said in the course of a national Newspaper Week address.

"In totalitarian states, the ears of the public hear only what the governing regime wishes them to hear. The eyes of the public see only what the government lets them see. The voice of the public is not heard at all. And the nose suffers from a chronic case of totalitarian adenoids."

Mr. Tobin pointed out that one of a newspaper's jobs is to have a keen nose for "whatever is rotten in Denmark."

He said he found it "astonishing" how many forms of government, from local to national, like to impose restraints and restrictions on the free dissemination of news.

BARRIER

"The city council that bars the press from some of its meetings, even though these deal with the business of the public, is trying to impose a barrier between the public and its ears," he said. "The province which tries by legislation to control what a newspaper publishes is putting a gag on the mouth of the public."

"The national government which imposes restrictions on the press is interfering with a form of public expression as honorable and necessary as government itself."

Mr. Tobin emphasized the difference between the news and editorial pages. The news pages are devoted to news; it is on the editorial page the newspaper has its innings.

"A newspaper must have a recognized and consistent editorial policy," he said. "An editorial page that refuses to take a stand on important matters of the day is no good to the community, and no good to the community."

"Even when this stand is not popular with a section of the public, a reputable journal will stick to its beliefs, just as a reputable citizen will."

BRIAN TOBIN

"It is less important that a newspaper have the agreement of its readers than it have their respect. Before a paper can enjoy public respect, it must have self respect."

He suggested one of the easiest ways to assess the community value of the newspaper is to imagine your community without one.

He said the newspaper reflected the community and was like the community, else it would go out of business.

ASK THE TIMES

Q.—I notice that letters arriving in Victoria are stamped with the name of the place where they were posted, also the time and date, but no other information as to date, etc., on arrival. I am wondering what would happen in case of a lawsuit, in which it would be necessary to prove date and time of arrival of a letter in Victoria. No doubt you might refer me to the postmaster, but as I mention, it would be interesting to hear the Times' opinion.—W.W.J.

A.—The Times' opinion has no bearing on this matter, it being wholly one of fact. Information given in this column by postoffice officials is as follows: Letters in a small postoffice where it is all general delivery, are date-stamped when received. In large city postoffices letters are not dated or stamped, but all general delivery letters are stamped on receipt as they are returned to the sender after two weeks, if not called for. As to letters which will have a place in lawsuits, proof of delivery to the addressee is provided by registration at a moderate fee.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the problem along to the Times, addressed to "Ask The Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily.

All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve conundrums.

Heraldic Symbols of the Queen's Royal Descent Displayed Here

Anyone versed in the science of heraldry is familiar with the Queen's Beasts.

Anyone who was in England at the time of the Coronation could have seen replicas of these beasts, a full six feet in height, arranged in a place of honor in front of the great window of the Abbey Annex, the assembly rooms specially built at the entrance to the church.

The same 10 heraldic beasts gained prominence, too, in the design of a priceless vase of fine china created by the British Pottery Manufacturers' Federation to honor the Coronation of Her Majesty the Queen. Original of the vase, superb in its workmanship, design and color, was presented to the Queen. Exact replicas went to each of the Queen's realms in the Commonwealth.

Design of the vase included the Royal Coat of Arms at the top flanked by the floral emblems of the four mother countries of the United Kingdom, the Tudor rose, the shamrock, the thistle and the leek. Next came the emblems of the seven Commonwealth countries, Canada, Australia, New Zealand, South Africa, India, Pakistan, Ceylon.

A crown surmounts the cover and around the base in gold-backed niches appear the beasts.

ONLY FEW SETS

The exquisite detail, the depth of color and the heraldic significance found in the 10 beasts, created a feeling amongst those who viewed the completed vase that a few sets of the beasts alone should be created.

It is one of these superb collections—produced by Minton—that is being introduced to Victoria this week by Woodward's Ltd.

The lion of England wears a royal crown and bears upon its shield the present Royal Arms of the United Kingdom; the griffin of Edward III is golden and bears a shield of the present royal livery colors, red and gold, upon which is the Round Tower of Windsor Castle, the badge of the present House of Windsor.

The falcon of the Plantagenets is silver with wings outspread. Its legs and beak are golden and it holds a shield of the livery colors of the House of York, blue and mulberry red. On these colors appear the same falcon within a golden fetterlock partly open.

The black bull of Clarence has hoofs and horns of gold and holds a shield of the Royal Arms as they were borne by the sovereigns of England from 1405 to 1603; the white lion of Mortimer holds a shield of the livery of the House of York, blue and mulberry red, and on Courtesy Haddock, manager, and Mrs. E. Pauwels, china and glassware department head of Woodward's Ltd., admire the Queen's Beasts, cased in a velvet-lined box that allows them to stand erect at all times. The set, a collector's dream, is now on view at the Douglas Street store.

of Scotland and the white horse of Hanover. The unicorn is milk-white with golden hoofs, horn, mane and tufts; about its neck is a royal coronet to which is attached a chain, also of gold. It supports a shield of the royal arms of former Scottish kings.

The white horse holds a shield of the royal arms of the United Kingdom as borne from 1714 to 1800.

The beasts used both in the design for the Queen's vase and for the Westminster Annexe are only 10 out of the many which might have been called on to serve their Queen. They were chosen by experts as those that would best illustrate Her Majesty's royal descent.

Their bearing, especially in their places at the Abbey, gave them the appearance of sentinels proudly and very devoutly mounting guard over the place of the Queen's crowning until such time as Her Majesty should come there in fulfillment.

Such, indeed, was partly their purpose, but there was more to it than just that.

For each beast, could he but have spoken, has also a romantic tale to tell of the rhyme and reason for his being there. Ask anyone versed in the science of heraldry. They know these tales well.

Needs, Work of Other Countries Shared in YWCA World Council

The world-wide work of the YWCA was presented in a colorful word picture by World YWCA executive member, Dr. Olga Jardine, at a luncheon in the "Y" Wednesday. Dr. Jardine was introduced by world service committee chairman, Mrs. F. McClement.

Since the first world meeting in 1897 with 20 countries represented, the organization has grown so that at the World

Council held at Royal Holloway College in England last year there were 300 representatives from 50 countries, the largest in the YWCA history, Dr. Jardine said.

"It was a marvelous privilege to have the opportunity to meet these women of other countries, to discuss Y work and compare problems and situations."

Typical costumes of the Asian countries lent a touch of color to all proceedings, and were especially noted during the area presentations where delegates told of needs or outstanding pieces of work in their area.

In the Asian countries, leadership is the greatest need, Dr. Jardine explained. An Asian leadership conference being held this year has given hope of new personalities and leaders. Many Asian groups are forming classes for the underprivileged and for the handicapped.

COLOMBO PLAN

In New Zealand and Australia work with Asian students there under the Colombo plan is of main interest. In the bigger Australian cities decentralization of the Y is catching on, so that rural and suburban districts benefit from the planned activities. In New Zealand great emphasis has been put on the strides made to integrate new New Zealanders.

It was noted that in the Caribbean areas, Canadian funds are the mainstay. This is where most of Canada's efforts are directed. In the Middle East a new residence has been opened in Baghdad. "But there is a desperate refugee situation in Jordan," the speaker said.

In Lebanon and Beirut there have been opened vocational schools for girls. A new seven-story girls' residence has been built in Greece, and it was stated that in a few months after the establishment of the Y in this country there were over 3,000 members.

BUILDING HOSTELS

A new project in Britain is the building of hostels for women over 25 who, because of the under-25 restrictive age in regular YWCA's, cannot live in the established homes. These are planned to be more like a home, without restrictive time elements. In the Scandinavian countries the Y activities are more rural and in many cases they are joint YM-YW projects.

There is a need for help on the Gold Coast, Sierra Leone, Nigeria and Uganda. "There has been fine development and outstanding achievements in the Y field in that area."

In closing, Dr. Jardine said, "The world meeting showed the work that could be and has been done in this Christian organization in the many parts of the world where fellowship, through this medium, was felt between the races."

Commonwealth-Europe Trade Enclave Urged to Give U.K. World Status

GRIM SOUVENIR—When Mr. and Mrs. John E. Slattery of Rochester, N.Y., were touring New York city this summer, little did they think that their sight-seeing would produce this grim reminder of the Andrea Doria sinking. They shot a picture of Grant's Tomb, then toured the waterfront and snapped the ill-fated liner at her dock. It turned out to be the double-exposure seen above. (NE 1)

Skipper Challenges Doria Collision Story

NEW YORK (UP)—The captain of the Andrea Doria challenges the testimony of the Stockholm's third mate today with his account of the July 25-26 collision which took 50 lives at sea.

Capt. Piero Calamai appeared briefly for the first time Wednesday at the pre-trial hearings to fix the blame for the world's worst peacetime sea disaster since the sinking of the Titanic in 1912.

None of the Italian ship's crew who will be called as witnesses will be allowed in the courtroom during Calamai's testimony.

Third mate Ernst Carstens-Johannsen, who was in charge of the Stockholm at the time of the collision, was under cross-examination for most of his 11 days of testimony. He claimed the Andrea Doria could have avoided the collision by "proceeding straight ahead or turning to starboard" instead of veering left into the path of the onrushing Stockholm.

REPORTS CONFLICT
The third mate has testified the two ships approached port-to-port, that the night was clear

U.S. Horses To Run in France

PARIS (Reuters)—The first American racehorses to be flown from the United States to France arrived Wednesday night to run in Sunday's $70,000 Grand Prix de l'Arc de Triomphe race at Longchamp.

They are Career Boy and Fisherman, both owned by C. V. Whitney.

LONDON (UP)—The 15-member Conservative "expanding Commonwealth group" urged Parliament today to tighten British economic ties with Europe and consider the idea of offering "associate membership" in the Commonwealth to friendly nations now not in the British sphere of influence.

The special parliamentary committee recommended a shift in the world balance of power which would weaken the century-old Anglo-American alliance.

"Either the Commonwealth will expand and grow or shrink and die," the committee warned in a report on a year's investigation of means of bringing new members into the Commonwealth.

The report said the Commonwealth could be strengthened by raising such territories as Hong Kong, Singapore and the Falkland Islands above colonial status to a full consultative level.

Commonwealth Ministers Consulted

Prime Minister Sir Anthony Eden and French Premier Guy Mollet are known to have discussed the plan at recent meetings. Chancellor of the Exchequer Harold Macmillan broached the idea to Commonwealth finance ministers in Washington last weekend.

Moves are already afoot toward tightening economic ties between the Commonwealth and Europe.

Six continental nations—France, West Germany, Italy and the Benelux nations—have been working on a customs union which would erase European present business boundaries as the first step toward uniting the continent.

Macmillan suggested the possibility of British membership in such a customs pool when he met Commonwealth finance ministers Saturday.

This in itself was a radical change in British thinking.

PENTICTON, B.C. (CP)—The Warwick brothers will play for Trail in the Western International Hockey League this year.

Frenchmen To Try Reverse 'Kon Tiki'

PAPEETE, Tahiti (Reuters)—Five Frenchmen said today they will embark on a bamboo raft late this month for Chile in a "reverse voyage" from Thor Heyerdahl's Kon-Tiki expedition.

Just as Heyerdahl's trip sought to prove that South American Indians settled south sea islands, so the Frenchmen are seeking to prove that Polynesians emigrated to South America.

12 Trapped Alive in Overtaken Ship

IJMUIDEN, The Netherlands (UP)—A Polish trawler turned turtle 145 miles off Holland's northwest coast tonight, trapping 12 seamen alive in a huge air bubble inside the hull.

A sister trawler stood by in the rough seas while a Norwegian salvage tug sped to attempt a rescue. The stricken trawler, the Cyranika, was believed carrying a crew of 17 but some were rescued, according to radio reports in broken English from a sister ship, the Mourekawala.

Ike To Spend Day of Rest in Seattle

SEATTLE (AP)—President Eisenhower will spend a work day in Seattle prior to delivering a major campaign speech the evening of Oct. 17, State Republican Chairman George Kinnear said today.

The President will arrive at Boeing Field between 4:30 and 5 p.m., Oct. 16, and take up headquarters at the Olympic Hotel. He will devote that evening and the following day on White House work before making his address at the Civic Auditorium, Kinnear said.

Commonwealth Friendly to Trade Plan

(See Page 29.)

EDMONTON (CP)—Using a set of rubber stamps, an ink pad and a bingo card, Sgt. Norman Duxbury of the RCMP in Alberta Supreme Court today demonstrated how numbers could be printed on a bingo sheet.

The police officer was testifying at the trial of Frank Pasek, his wife Lucille, his sister Mary, and Ted Petryga, four persons charged with conspiracy, fraud and attempted fraud concerning two bingo games last January.

Suez Ships
Hours Late,
2nd Tieup

PORT SAID, Egypt (Reuters)—Suez Canal operations were delayed again today.

The first southbound convoy was six hours late starting, twice as late as Wednesday's first southbound convoy.

Fog and mishaps to two ships were blamed for Wednesday's delays.

All Daoud, transit chief of the Egyptian Suez Canal Authority, confirmed reports that the 4,809-ton Panamanian freighter Archon Michael was grounded in the canal for two hours and said the 11,110-ton Norwegian tanker Eli Knudsen was tied up for 20 minutes near Suez.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld of the United Nations is reported using his full influence to avert a showdown fight in the Security Council which might shut the door to further UN peace efforts in the Suez dispute.

Informed quarters say this is the main theme in the series of private talks Hammarskjöld is having with high-ranking diplomats assembling here for the Suez debate beginning in the Security Council Friday.

The secretary-general was understood today to have found substantial support, but Britain and France said they were determined to push their demands for UN endorsement of the plan for international control of the canal approved by the London conference in mid-August.

LIVING COST
INDEX DIPS

OTTAWA (CP)—Living costs declined slightly in August from their record high level of July, forced down by lower food prices of harvest-time. The Bureau of Statistics today reported its consumer price index, based on 1949 prices equaling 100, reached a mark of 119 for August, down one-tenth of a point from the July level of 119.1, which it had reached following three consecutive monthly increases.

Black Magic
All Sal HadBy BILL RAYNER
Times Sports Reporter

EBBETS FIELD, Brooklyn—Better they should call Sal "the barber" Maglie, Sal "the incredible."

1ST IN 5 YEARS

Rain Halts
Series

NEW YORK (AP)—Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick ordered the postponement of today's second game of the world series between Brooklyn and New York Yankees because of a light rain and "menacing weather."

The second game will be played Friday at Ebbets Field with the forecast for fair weather.

It was the first postponement of a world series game in five years. A Sunday game at the Polo Grounds in 1951 between the Yankees and New York Giants was postponed then because of rain.

If a world series game is started, the rules of baseball apply and five innings would constitute a game, 4½ innings if the home team is ahead.

Brooklyn's Don Newcombe and New York's Don Larsen, a pair of non-winning world series right-handers, will face each other in Friday's game.

Maglie, the bargain basement pitcher the Dodgers got for the claiming price this year, threw nothing but strikes at the New York Yankees here Wednesday and the Yankees hit almost nothing back at him in the Dodgers' 6-3 victory.

Oh, there were a couple of irreverent Yankee blasts—Mickey Mantle's line shot out of the park in the first inning for two runs, and Billy Martin's sneaker into the left field stands in the fourth—but apart from those, Maglie spun his black magic superbly.

The odd part though as the Dodgers and Yankees prepare for the second game of the series here Friday, rain dampening the festivities today, is that the Dodger fans took their victory with just a touch of glibness. They expected it of the Dodgers. The gamblers, however, still say the Yankees will prevail. But try and tell that to Dodger fans. They whispered nicely when Mantle let go his home run into the parking lot in the first inning, but the feeling was: just wait, we haven't really had a chance to bat yet.

And Casey Stengel's only "professional" pitcher, Whitey Ford, soon found out what they meant.

He wasn't a pro for very long.

But the real story was Maglie. His fast ball was nothing more than something to sneer at. His curve had a dinky dip.

Russ Lumber
Chiefs Land,
Coming Here

MONTREAL (CP)—Waving merrily and wearing jovial grins, a delegation of Russian lumber officials headed by Lumber Minister G. M. Orlov, arrived today for a tour of Canada.

The seven stepped from their transatlantic aircraft and were greeted by chief representatives of the Canadian Lumbermen's Association and Russian Ambassador Dimitri Chuvashin. Heading the Canadians was C.I.A. president Roy Halliday of Toronto, who recently led a group of Canadian lumber of fials on a tour of Russia covering some 8,000 miles.

The Russians head westward for Banff, Oct. 16, arriving in Vancouver Oct. 18. After a busy visit in British Columbia, including a day in Victoria as guests of B.C. government, they will go to Ottawa for Oct. 27 conferences.

Bevan Ready for Truce

BLACKPOOL, England (CP)—Aneurin Bevan, newly-restored to top ranks of the Labor party, indicated Wednesday night he is ready for a truce in his feud with party leader Hugh Gaitskell.

OVERPLAYED

Drunk Act
Downfall
Of Robber

TORONTO (CP)—Bank robber Robert Wood, an artist at disguise who escaped from Kingston penitentiary five days ago, overplayed a drunk act Wednesday night and got caught.

When the "drunk" was fingerprinted police identified him as Wood, 27, who had been serving a 23-year term for two bank holdups involving a total of $94,317 and one attempted robbery. None of the loot has been recovered.

Although pictures of Wood in various disguises had been circulated, police didn't recognize him even after they made identification through fingerprints. Officers said he looked more like a bank executive than a bank robber. He was not armed.

Labor Hits Racism

BLACKPOOL, Eng. (Reuters)—The Labor Party today condemned South Africa's racial policies but rejected a resolution suggesting the eventual expulsion of South Africa from the Commonwealth. The party's annual convention also turned down a demand for abolition of conscription.

Mr. Hees, 46-year-old Commons member for Toronto-Broadview, said Mr. Diefenbaker "will make the best possible leader for our party."

"I strongly urge him to run, and I pledge my support to him if he does," said Mr. Hees as he stepped down in favor of the 61-year-old member for Prince Albert, Sask., the Conservative Party's foreign affairs spokesman.

PEACETIME BLOCKBUSTERS AT WORK

Like the aftermath of a bombing raid, Victoria's old post office lies in ruins today. Scene from top of Belmont building shows how rear section is being preserved. It will be joined to new $1,000,000 front section for customs and immigration offices by Luney Bros. and Hamilton. (Times photo.)

In Hospital

Taken to Penticton Hospital after collapsing just before this morning's session of the Union of B.C. Municipalities convention, Municipal Affairs Minister Wesley Black was reported "in good spirits" at press time. Physicians said his collapse appeared due to overwork.

Walkout Justified

NORTH VANCOUVER (CP)—A strike of 32 Filipino seamen from the Manila-owned freighter Sula continued today, following a ruling of the Panamanian consul-general that the walkout is justified. The men claim they have received no overtime or sickness pay for as much as five years.

Speeding Train Runs
Gauntlet of Gunfire

JERUSALEM (AP)—Israeli officials said the crowded Haifa-Jerusalem passenger train was attacked Wednesday night by rifle and machine-gun fire from across the Jordan border. The train engineer was the only casualty.

The wounded man, hit in the leg by a ricocheting bullet, put on full speed and piloted the train for another six miles, until it reached Lydda.

The incident occurred in the Israeli coastal plain about 35 miles south of Haifa.

Security forces aboard the train returned the fire.

Poznan Trial Near End

POZNAN, Poland (Reuters)—Defense lawyers making final pleas today for three youths on trial for murdering a security officer during the Poznan bread riots, said the youths were victims of mob psychology.

"When the danger was over the passengers got up again and began to sing," witnesses reported.

Israel announced Wednesday that its delegate would attend no more meetings of the Israeli-Jordan armistice commission. The foreign ministry charged the United Nations truce organization with "steady attempts . . . to equalize acts of Jordan aggression with justified Israeli measures of self-defence."

The chief truce supervisor, Maj.-Gen. E. L. M. Burns of Canada, appealed to the Israelis to reconsider and said the Israeli-Jordan commission chairman, Lt.-Col. Christian F. Moen of Norway, reached his decisions only "after most thorough and painstaking analysis of all available facts and evidence and after obtaining, when appropriate, legal advice."

Hees Withdraws From Tory Race,
Joins Diefenbaker Bandwagon

TRAIL, B.C. (CP)—George Hees today withdrew himself as a contender for the Progressive Conservative Party leadership, pledging his support to Saskatchewan lawyer John Diefenbaker as the man who can achieve "complete harmony and unity within our ranks."

Mr. Hees, 46-year-old Commons member for Toronto-Broadview, said Mr. Diefenbaker "will make the best possible leader for our party."

"I strongly urge him to run, and I pledge my support to him if he does," said Mr. Hees as he stepped down in favor of the 61-year-old member for Prince Albert, Sask., the Conservative Party's foreign affairs spokesman.

Mr. Hees issued his statement at Ottawa and at Trail, where he is on a two-week speaking tour of the four Western provinces.

His announcement aligned him with a Diefenbaker-for-leader movement within the Conservative Commons membership which took shape at Ottawa earlier this week following a meeting of the party's national association executive.

The meeting, attended by Mr. Hees, planned a convention in Labor Plans To Probe Increase

A third distillery submitted increased prices on all brands of hard liquor today as members of the Victoria Labor Council objected to increases already announced.

At a meeting Wednesday, the council moved to establish a three-man committee to study reasons for the 16½ per cent higher price asked by distillers.

New prices were submitted today by Canadian Schenley Ltd., following example set by the House of Seagram and Alberta Distillers.

16½ PER CENT

All three firms propose to raise their prices by as much as 16½ per cent.

At the labor council meeting, retail clerks delegate John Aubrey objected to the manner in which the price increases had been presented. He said wage increases are usually responsible, but this is not true in this case.

Ed Haw, IWW delegate, said the increase is probably due to the fact distillers have control of all possible liquor outlets in the province and can't expand further.

Meanwhile, Col. Donald McGugan, B.C. Liquor chairman, confirmed he had joined with the liquor boards of Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba in protesting the price increases.

WHAT BASIS

Attorney General Robert Bonner, whose department administers the liquor laws in B.C., disclosed that the letter of protest has been sent to the chairman of the Alberta board with the support of the three other western provinces.

He said the protest noted "the peremptory nature" of the increases and asked on what basis they were warranted.

Both Mr. Bonner and Col. McGugan declined comment on reports that the four liquor boards have halted orders from the three distillers until their protest is answered.

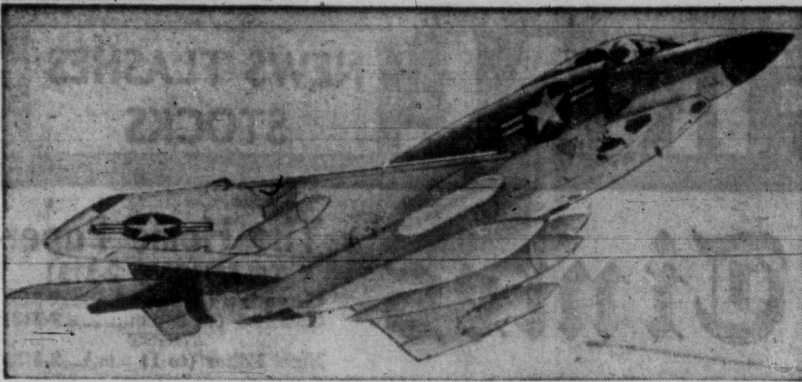

In the event that the three companies stand by their increases, Continued on Page 29

U.K. Turbo-Prop
Britannias Sold

LONDON (Reuters)—A United States airline today signed a contract for the purchase of the first five Bristol Britannia turbo-prop airliners ever sold to America.

North-East Airlines announced jointly with Bristol Aircraft Company that the contract has been signed for more than $17,000,000 with delivery promised late next year.

Mr. Hees' withdrawal may improve the chances of Donald Fleming, 51-year-old party stalwart from Toronto-Eglinton, in the leadership race. Another member, Dave Fulton, 40, of Kamloops, B.C., also is known to be considering contesting the leadership.

Experts to Examine Strip-Teaser Scars

PARIS (AP)—A court Wednesday appointed three experts to examine strip-teaser Sonia Silver to determine whether, as she claimed, an operation left disfiguring scars across her stomach. Maitre Rene Floriot, her lawyer, told the court: "Because of a doctor, the daring but advantageous paths of this kind of spectacle are henceforth closed to her." Sonia, a pretty blonde, was said to have requested the operation to flatten her stomach. The result, it was claimed, was the disfiguring scar.

Amount of the damages claimed was not disclosed in court.

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—City police figured it wasn't venison from Denison, but veal from a steal.

Officers found three men skinning an animal in a North Dallas back yard Wednesday. The men said it was a deer they ran over near Denison, not far from here.

But there's more than one way to tell a skinned calf from a fawn, and the officers suspected cattle rustling.

The veal was placed in an icebox for safe keeping and three suspects were put "on ice" at the city jail while charges are prepared.

VIENNA (Reuters) — A man wrote to a Hungarian newspaper saying that Hungarian customs officials ordered him to open every can of sardines he had brought to Hungary to feed his family. When he complained, they agreed he need not open all the cans provided those unopened were given as a gift to the Hungarian state.

He said the officials wanted the cans opened because they feared spies might bring back messages from abroad in sealed sardine cans.

BLUTH, Eng. (AP)—Three 13-year-old girls who insist on wearing earrings to school have been segregated from their classmates.

Headmistress R. W. Leddicot called the trio into her office and told them they would have to study there until the result of an appeal to their parents becomes known.

"This earring thing has become a craze," she said, "some of the girls are even piercing one another's ears with darned needles."

Student Trio Faces Charge Of Blackmail

WALLA WALLA, Wash. (AP)—Three students of Walla Walla College were charged with blackmail Wednesday, accused of attempting to extort $500 from a school official.

Prosecutor Arthur Hawman filed the charges against Gordon S. Rupert, 19, of Greeley, Colo., Kenneth Lorenz, 19, of Moses Lake, Wash., and Tom Mathison, 17, of Kingston, Ont.

The prosecutor said the three were accused of threatening to send certain information to college authorities and the man's wife unless he left $500 at a spot near the Walla Walla airport Tuesday night.

Rail Rates Hearing Adjourned

OTTAWA (CP)—The Board of Transport Commissioners today adjourned until next week consideration of the railways' request for a 15-per-cent general rail freight rate increase.

The board opened its hearing into the case Sept. 24. It will resume next Wednesday to hear views of Alberta and Saskatchewan coal operators. Oct. 16 was set as the date on which final argument will begin.

The board in June granted the railways an interim 7-per-cent general rate boost.

Municipal Act Revision Talks Set for Oct. 18 in Victoria

PENTICTON (CP)—Revision of the Municipal Act to allow for establishment of metropolitan areas will not be dealt with at the annual convention of the Union of B.C. Municipalities now in session here.

Burnaby Reeve C. W. MacSorley, chairman of UBCM's Municipal Act revision committee, announced today the section dealing with metropolitan areas will be reviewed by his committee and Municipal Affairs Minister Wesley Black at a special meeting, Oct. 18.

Mr. MacSorley said the meeting had been called by Mr. Black and will probably be held in Victoria.

Speaking at the 53rd annual UBCM convention, Mr. MacSorley said more than 1,000 sections of the act have been reviewed by his committee, but that the metropolitanization section had not been touched.

He said the new act "will be supreme in the field of municipal legislation" and has been shaped "to prevent the damaging effect on local governments when senior governments invade the fields of endeavor best handled at the local level."

One proposed change would have elected parks boards replaced by council-appointed boards and elected police commissions replaced by appointed boards, he said.

The convention was told Wednesday that neither provincial nor municipal governments have any control over the rising cost of RCMP services.

In a special report to the UBCM annual convention, Prince Rupert Mayor George Hills, the RCMP contracts, Mayor Hills UBCM's president, said there said.

Cost per man per year to a municipality now stands at $2,415, compared with a $1,400 annual per man cost in original RCMP contracts, Mayor Hills said.

Most municipalities have already been notified of a further increase in contract costs in 1957, he said.

Per capita cost of RCMP policing is the same in all municipal contracts across Canada, he said.

Elderly persons who are short of fuel or require special diets and destitute families in need of temporary housing are given assistance by the St. Vincent de Paul Society, a Red Feather agency.

Commonwealth-Europe Trade Enclave Urged to Give U.K. World Status

'DANCE OF THE DEMENTED' RUSS TAG FOR ROCK 'N' ROLL

MOSCOW (Reuters)—A Russian newspaper says that "rock 'n' roll" is the "dance of the demented" and the western nations must pay the consequences for its pernicious influence.

The newspaper Soviet Culture makes the first reference in Russia to the craze sweeping western nations.

Soviet Culture says "rock 'n' roll" spread across the United States and western Europe after a "hysterical advertisement" campaign sponsored by movie moguls who are "least of all interested in the morals of youth."

COMMUNITY CHEST RACE

Saskatoon Takes Up Victoria Challenge

Saskatoon told Victoria today it will race to see which city is first to realize its Community Chest objective.

A telegram to City Hall today from Prairie Mayor J. D. McKaskill said:

"Saskatoon is not afraid to tackle Victoria. Your challenge is accepted."

The Red Feather feud grew from a hat-betting contest at the Union of B.C. Municipalities convention at Penticton, Wednesday.

Word arrived at Penticton the mayor of Edmonton was willing to bet a Stetson his city would be first to fill its chest. Mayor Fred Hume of Vancouver said he'd bet a Panama hat on his city's generosity.

creases, it is not yet known how much of the increase will be passed onto the consumer.

15c BOOST SEEN

Proposed liquor price increase is not on the price per bottle at the liquor store, but on the basic producers' price. The Times was advised today.

This means that cost per bottle of gin, or the cheaper ryes, might approximate 15 cents, rather than the 30 cents some consumers had feared.

Distillers' in-bond selling price of a case of gin, for example, is about $7.40. To this is added Dominion of Canada excise tax of $12 a gallon ($15.60), a manufacturers' tax of 10 per cent, government freight charge and provincial sales tax of 5 per cent.

Provincial government profit of approximately 50 per cent brings the consumer price in the area of $3.41 a bottle.

If the proposed price increase of 15 per cent is granted, it will apply to the basic sale price per case, and will also boost excise and sales tax revenues by a few pennies.

Possibility that the government may take an added cent or two profit, in bringing the retail store price to round figures, envisages a cost-per-bottle increase of about 15 cents, in the categories mentioned.

LONDON (UP)—The 15-member Conservative "expanding Commonwealth group" urged Parliament today to tighten British economic ties with Europe and consider the idea of offering "associate membership" in the Commonwealth to friendly nations now not in the British sphere of influence.

The special parliamentary committee recommended a shift in the world balance of power which would weaken the century-old Anglo-American alliance.

"Either the Commonwealth will expand and grow or shrink and die," the committee warned in a report on a year's investigation of means of bringing new members into the Commonwealth.

The report said the Commonwealth could be "strengthened by raising such territories as Hong Kong, Singapore and the Falkland Islands above colonial status to a full consultative level with other Commonwealth members."

It said Malta, Cyprus, Aden, Gibraltar, Fiji and Mauritius might also be considered in the future.

France, Germany and Holland reacted favorably to the suggestion of closer British economic ties with Europe.

Commonwealth Ministers Consulted

Prime Minister Sir Anthony Eden and French Premier Guy Mollet are known to have discussed the plan at recent meetings. Chancellor of the Exchequer Harold Macmillan broached the idea to Commonwealth finance ministers in Washington last weekend.

Moves are already afoot to ward tightening economic ties between the Commonwealth and Europe.

Six continental nations—France, West Germany, Italy and the Benelux nations—have been working on a customs union which would erase European present business boundaries as the first step toward uniting the continent.

Macmillan suggested the possibility of British membership in such a customs pool when he met Commonwealth finance ministers Saturday.

This in itself was a radical change in British thinking.
